Well Mike another year is up and I year were serious I hope you look forward to it as much as I do.

Have a great Summer

Tim DePrespo

Have a nice summer in 200. Time flies you next year. Hope to see you next year.

Jodi Brown

Mike, Its been alot of fun in Math class. Sure hope we have a class together next year. Take it easy and have a great Summer.

Love always,
Kristi Nichols

Mike, Ive enjoyed having you in english. I hope you have a good Summer See you next year

Day Johnson

Mike,
It was nice knowing you this year. See you next year (grades at last)!

Janet "B"

Mike,
I've been coming in class with you for a long time. It's been fun.

Denise Kellogg

Mike,
nice a little strange, but nice.
next year, when you
see me in the hall, say hi!. Hope to see
ya next year,
Liz Stephens "93"

Mike,
You are a fluffy
head & a air
head, douche bag
mess for the seniors stuff you really will be fun to pick on see ya next year
HALEY
Galeo Rose

Mike,
You seem to be a fun person. I'm sorry it didn't work out that one weekend you asked me out. Have fun on future dance tests. Even though you know some of them. (remember?) Oh well sometimes it just has to be done. Friends (I sure hope we) forever,
Lou Potts

Mike,
I really enjoyed having you in photography. It was also nice having you in English. You're a real sweet guy. Stay that way. Karen (don't order) '93

mike,
I sure enjoy seeing you around. Hopefully next year will go fast. Take extra good care. You are one sweet love,
Shari Rhodes
"BREW"

Mike,
Glad you got to see
Miss Gay. I am glad this year. Have you had a good senior year. I hope your last few days are fun.

Spotlight on Exercise and Recreation

Whether it was participating in a rigorous game of touch football or finding that special soft spot on the sofa to watch a good movie, everyone had his or her own way of relaxing.

Many of us enjoyed jogging, either early in the morning or late at night. It wasn't unusual to see a person jogging down the street clad in a grey sweatsuit under brightly colored shorts. Some of us ran to shed pounds and others did it to get into condition and build stamina. Senior Lisa Bradley often got up at 6 a.m. to jog "for the health of it."

Though Emporia is far removed from the snow-covered slopes of the Rocky Mountains, snow skiing was fast becoming a popular sport. Around 175 of us hit the slopes during Christmas and Easter vacations at resorts like Winter Park, Breckenridge, Loveland, Vail, and Copper Mountain. Those of us who had been skiing were easily recognized at school by our painfully sunburned faces.

With the opening of Idle Times, across from Godfather's, students found yet another way to unwind. Pinball games like "Gorgar" and "Middle Earth" were popular ways to fill our fun time, along with electronic games like "Bandito," "Witch Hunt" and, of course, "Astroids."

When we were really uptight, nothing could beat kicking off our shoes, putting on a pair of headphones, and tuning out the world as a way of escaping from the tensions of school, jobs and home.

Spotlight on transportation

Cars, trucks, vans, motorcycles, and bicycles ... we all needed transportation to get around town. Most of us had to agree, cars played an important part in our lives.

Freshmen only dreamed about the day when they could drive, as they sleepily boarded the school bus at the crack of dawn.

Sophomores pleaded, threatened, and promised anything to get that first license. "Please, Dad, everyone I know has a driver's license. Look, I can run errands, pick up my little sister at school when it snows, and help drive on long trips. C'mon, Dad, just think of all the time I'd save by not riding the bus that I can spend on homework. Please, Dad, everyone else...." Remember?

Juniors that were persistent enough to get a driver's license soon tired of using the family car on Saturday night only. Summer jobs provided the cash for their first car, but they were soon tired of their '67 clunkers and waited in eager anticipation of the day when they could buy that brand new Porsche on the showroom floor.

Seniors, after buying that second car, found themselves holding two jobs to pay for gas, which ran anywhere from $7-$20, insurance that was sometimes as high as $420 a year, and general repairs on brakes, mufflers and tires. All this just for that brand new PINTO on the showroom floor.

Spotlight on jobs

Money continued to be a necessity to most of us. As prices rose; neither money from our parents nor the weekly allowance managed to cover the cost of owning a car, buying clothes, or paying for recreation.

Many of us began to realize this and 47% of us found jobs. Most girls around Emporia began by babysitting for one dollar an hour while many boys delivered the Gazette for about $75 a month. Then we graduated into the minimum wage bracket: the scramble of the fast food restaurants such as Vista, Hardee's, Wendy's, and McDonald's. A few of us finally managed to find jobs which were relaxing, offered great hours, and paid above minimum wage, like those who worked at jewelry stores, in camera shops, or in business offices.

One problem did arise from making money: the dreaded grade drop. Going to school and working took up most of our days, and there never seemed to be enough time for homework. Finally, grades began a nose dive. However, most of us somehow managed to combine the two. It was just all a part of coping with life.

Spotlight on social life

Partying was a major part of our year. School functions like football games and dances brought us all together, but it was after the games or dances that we broke into groups to "party."

Groups of girls cruised around scouting for boys, while groups of guys parked their cars at Vista, Safeway or David's to girl watch. Sometimes we all ended up going to a party at somebody's house. We always managed to find something to do.

Dating was a big part of high school life for some of us. Couples sometimes split the cost for eating out or going to the show or the drive-in, but some of us ended up watching T.V. at each other's houses to save money.

While we partied, we really dressed up or we just wore jeans; there seemed to be no "in-between." Jeans were still the fad, but "baggy pants" were making an appearance. The "preppy" look was just beginning for girls, with a plaid pleated skirt, a white blouse with a little black ribbon at the neck, a matching vest, knee socks and loafers. Guys sometimes surprised everyone by wearing three-piece suits to school. Few Emporia girls actually tried the Bo Derek look, but several of us experimented with French braids or pigtails.

No matter how much we partied during the weekend, we always realized by Sunday night that the reality of school would hit us again on Monday morning.

Scene I: Fall

Trudging back to school wasn't exactly the way most of us planned to beat the heat. Across the nation, temperatures were still soaring above 110° by the end of August.

As the first bell rang, we filed into the gym for our annual "Welcome Back/Freshman Intimidation" speech. When the last of the new students finally discovered the gym, they were trampled underfoot as we all stampeded to our second hour class and slowly settled back into the routine of school.

Activities began in earnest the first of September. The Spartan Marching Band presented their first concert September 4 in the gymnasium. Then Kayettes sponsored the annual Back-to-School Dance the next night.

A new system was tried for Picture Day, September 10. All freshman and sophomore gym classes filed to the auditorium the first of each hour; juniors were called alphabetically at the end of each class.

While all the clubs were selling memberships, Kayettes found they had sold five too many. Five senior guys had paid membership dues and were given the "go-ahead" by the sponsors. Administrators said "no," saying the boys would have to form their own club, Kays.

Between September 15-20, many of us watched NBC's mini-series, "Shogun." Over 75 million people tuned in to the series, making it the most watched program since "Roots."

"I thought 'Shogun' was excellent. The acting was good, photography excellent, and the costumes were really good. I think it really helped that they filmed it on location. Although I'm not an expert on Japanese history, it appeared to be quite realistic."

Arvina Lumley

Presidential Candidate John B. Anderson stepped into the election spotlight when he won the necessary 15% of the vote to be able to participate in the televised debate sponsored by the League of Women Voters on September 21. President Jimmy Carter refused to participate, saying Anderson was not a viable candidate. Candidate Ronald Reagan, however, did debate Anderson one-to-one.

The candidates were off and running in the presidential horse race, and we were gearing up for Homecoming.

The evening of October 17 was clear and cool. Our eyes were focused on the queen candidates as they walked on to the field at Welch Stadium. Tension was high while each candidate was announced. Then cheering and clapping took over when Dana Ginavan was announced as the 1981 Homecoming Queen.

Preparation for the festivities had been going on for weeks. Math Club sold mums for the football game, four organizations and four classes began planning their floats, and the band and drill team worked for weeks on a special show for half time. Meanwhile, girls were searching for long dresses for the dance while guys ordered corsages. Queen candidates, announced during the October 3 pep assembly, were Shana Bollinger, Becky Cranz, Dana Ginavan, Sandy Wells and Cassandra Zurich. A parade brought the girls to the stadium where Dana later reigned over the winning game against Leavenworth.

"It was really an honor to be chosen as Homecoming Queen, but the best part of the game was watching our team beat Leavenworth."

Dana Ginavan

Black Market Art Club won first place of $50 in the mini-float contest. The floats were taken to the field before the game Friday night, and balloons decorated the stands and floated through the air during the game.

"Make a Little Magic" was the theme for the homecoming dance featuring "Monarch" the next night in the gymnasium. Decorations were peach or brown table cloths, accented with strips of crepe paper and carnations.

October began with a big bang with the Kayette Variety Show October 1. The Kayettes donated over $500 to the American Heart Association.

Following this, on October 14, StuCo sponsored the movie "Ice Castles" for our evening entertainment.

October could have been named "test month." There was the S.R.A. test for sophomores, the A.S.V.A.B. Service test, the Junior Kuder test, the P.S.A.T. National Merit, and the usual end-of-the-quarter tests.

"College night was really helpful because it emphasized financial aid information and gave us a chance to learn about the colleges we want to go to."

Jeff Cravens

Classes began in earnest to work on money-making projects. Juniors and freshmen planned bake sales on October 11, and junior magazine sales began.

The Fall Concert on October 22 featured a wide variety of numbers, including a thirty-minute song called "Gloria." Also on October 27, Kansas colleges presented information about their schools for juniors and seniors on College Night.

Meanwhile, a war began between Iran and Iraq. Many of us were uneasy, wondering if a draft would be reinstated.

To relieve some of our tension, the World Series began with the Kansas City Royals against the Philadelphia Phillies. All of us loyal fans were glued to the TV set from October 14-20; homework couldn't budge us. In the end, we were let down when the Phillies won in the sixth game, but we were still proud of the Royals.

Presidential candidates Jimmy Carter and Ronald Reagan were still battling for votes while the hostages, in captivity for almost one entire year, still saw little hope for release. At home, a serious problem arose in Atlanta; fourteen black children were murdered or disappeared in fifteen months.

The end of October brought both the end of the first quarter and the celebration of Halloween. We teased our teachers with threats of "tricks" instead of treats, while they reminded us that grade cards wouldn't be passed out until after Halloween!

SCENE 2: WINTER

Results of our school mock election early in November mirrored the national results. Presidential candidate Ronald Reagan ran away with a surprisingly easy victory over incumbent Jimmy Carter on November 4. A special election issue of THE ECHO, announcing local and national contest results, greeted us the next morning as we came to school.

Seniors were already looking toward graduation as they chose announcements and other graduation items.

After a slow start, our football team bounced back to win a berth in the state play-offs November 15. Prospects of our making it to the play-offs were dim, as three specific teams needed to lose November 8 in order for us to make it. Although we traveled to state, Fort Scott dashed our hopes in the first play-off game.

The four-day Thanksgiving vacation was refreshing for all of us; we knew that once the winter sports schedule began, we'd find our days extremely busy.

Relationships among various countries seemed strained. Although talk of release of the American hostages in Iran continued, progress seemed remote. Striking problems in Poland brought veiled threats from Russia. And Jordan and Syria were eying each other with distrust.

In the meantime, a devastating earthquake hit Italy, and fire engulfed the 26 stories of the MGM Hotel in Las Vegas, killing 84 people on November 21.

Practice lists for the annual Christmas program were released, and winter sports practice began; the "rush" was just beginning.

The regular Christmas rush began with the Annual Silver and Roses Debate Tournament December 12 and 13. Some of us stayed to time debates, while most of us joyfully left school one hour early.

Practice for the 45th Annual Christmas Program created havoc for December. For two weeks, practices were held for over 800 students from grades 6-12, disrupting classes until the program was performed December 15 and 16 at White Auditorium.

"The music went very well. It helped bring the meaning of Christmas together."

Dawn Channing, sr.

Decorations around school could be seen as Christmas neared. The seniors placed first on the class windows, which "lighted" up the school. Holly for the Kayettes also arrived, and parties were more frequent.

While the unexpected death of John Lennon December 15 shocked Americans, films of the hostages in Iran raised people's hopes for their release. The White House Christmas tree lights were lit for 417 seconds as a special tribute to the hostages. Trouble with Poland also continued as NATO told the USSR "keep hands off" Poland.

"I think it was a terrible waste of a great musician— John Lennon."

Staci Lee, soph.

Snow was an unexpected sight for us Christmas Day as the weather had been extremely warm for most of December. As our vacation came to an end, we realized that we still had a little more than half the year to go.

Amid rounds of applause, Seniors Becky Zirnstein and James Stone were named as the new Winter Sports King and Queen during a ceremony February 6 in the EHS gymnasium.

Principal Jerry Baumgardner presented the crown to Becky and a plaque to James between the two varsity basketball games. Spartan Secretary Lisa Cotte presented red roses to Queen Becky and Spartan President Janice Butts and Jamie Roberts, sr., helped Becky with the royal robe. Each of the queen candidates, Kathy Parks, Debbie Zinn, Kay Nelson, and Angela Milton, were presented with a 14 carat gold plated basketball charm. The king candidates, Gabe Sosa, Kelly Ratcliff, Joel Rios, and Marc Campbell, each received little plaques reading "Winter Sports Candidate 1981."

After all the presentations, the queen and her court reigned over the Highland Park game. The game was one of the most exciting during the year. With just a few seconds to go, Jeff Cravens, sr., tied the score. However, in an overtime, Highland Park pulled away to end the game.

The Winter Sports Dance was held in honor of the king and queen and their courts February 7 at the Lowther Middle School South. The theme of "Sometimes a Fantasy" was carried out with pink, lavender and blue decorations. The room was further decorated with mini-hoops made by various student groups, including the winning hoop made by the freshman class. Streamers decorated the gym, and the tables each featured a pastel carnation. Refreshments were provided by the senior class. Music was provided by DJ Mike Law.

Scene III: Spring

Work and anticipation accompanied the approach of enrollment as we figured out our schedules. We constantly worried about whether we'd get all the classes we wanted, and our regular classes were often interrupted for teacher-advisor meetings.

Club events kept coming our way. The Kayette Father/Daughter Banquet was held February 23, FBLA attended their state meeting March 26-27, the Girl-Ask-Guy Dance was sponsored by Kayettes March 28, and StuCo met with the Food Committee to help improve our lunch menu.

Basketball was going full strength as our women won sub-state with a record of 20-1, and sixteen journalism students attended the KSPA state competition March 28.

In world news, another hotel fire struck in Las Vegas, which prompted officials to stiffen fire protection laws. A cloud hung over Georgia as the mystery of the Atlanta murders of black children remained unsolved. A rise in stamp prices from 15 cents to 18 cents irritated Americans, but new budget proposals by President Ronald Reagan rocked the country. Iran's assets were finally unfrozen, and a trial involving the teaching of evolution in California schools made the news.

"I agree the budget needed to be cut, but I believe the President is cutting in the wrong places."

As we were beginning our second quarter, President Carter finally reached agreement with Iran, leading to the release of the 52 hostages who had been held prisoner for 444 days. On the same day, January 21, President-elect Ronald Reagan was sworn in as the 40th President while many of us watched on the TV in the library.

Good news from abroad was reinforced with good news at school. On January 29-31, Emporia captured second at the 8th annual Glacier's Edge Tournament. The wrestlers took third at state, and the swim team placed the highest of any 5A team at state. Journalism students dominated the KSPA Regional Contest at Manhattan February 13 by winning 19 spots out of 39. To top all this, senior debaters Mike Paulonis, Fred Polzin, Alan Rowe, and Steve Woods won regionals and went on to win state. Alan and Fred won first at state, which gave them the privilege of attending nationals at Salt Lake City in Utah.

Once again the musical groups entertained the community, this time with the musical "Oklahoma." Then on February 20 and 21, Hutchinson High School won sweepstakes at the Annual Silver and Roses Forensics Tournament we hosted.

For the first time, administrators planned a Parent-Teacher meeting to inform the parents of enrollment, thus beginning the long process of spring enrollment.

Director chooses difficult play

"See How They Run," presented November 13 and 14, was "a very fast-paced English farce" according to Director Kent Chapman.

"I chose this play because time was running out, and I didn't have another one picked to do," said Mr. Chapman. "I had worked with this play some years ago and thought it a good one, so I thought I'd try it again."

"The cast really did a good job," said Mr. Chapman. He explained that many of the characters were difficult to portray, and half of the cast was inexperienced in theater work.

"An awful lot of time was spent on the production because it is such a difficult one to do," he added. "There were no major changes from previous years except for the fact that all but one of the cast members were seniors."

Ken Murray, soph., who took care of sound backstage, said, "The play was extremely fast paced, so the cast had to be alert in order to catch their cues. Then they would have to rush on stage, say a line, and rush off again. This was what made the play so very difficult."

Mr. Chapman was pleased with attendance at the two performances. "I saw the play and thought it was pretty good," said Gilda Polley, jr.

"I've been in four other plays, but I think this was the most fun to do even though our parts were a little hard," commented Janice Butts, sr.

Musical a challenge

"Musicals are always a challenge and a chore. This year's was really a pleasure and, in my memories, one of the top three musicals we have ever done," said Chorale Director Don Grant of "Oklahoma," presented February 18 and 19.

Mr. Grant chose "Oklahoma" because he feels it is one of the finest shows ever written. "It has not been done here at the high school for a number of years," he said.

The show required many special features. These included dance routines, costumes, and stage sets.

The dance routines were choreographed by Brenda Jordan, manager of Jordan's Studio of Arts. "I think that this was the best group I have ever worked with," said Miss Jordan. "Rarely do you find a group with no dance training who can do so well, especially guys."

The cast was in charge of getting their own costumes. "Some of them made them or borrowed them from somebody," said Mr. Grant.

"Because the stage crews did such a good job and got the sets ready early, we were able to start practice early," explained Mr. Grant.

The Chorale began practice for the musical approximately five weeks before the show, and practiced up to five hours a day.

Doug Cunningham, who played Curly, said, "I was pleased to have a major part, and it took a lot of hard work, but I would do it again!"

The rope twirling performed in the show was taught by Roy Jordan, a local attorney.

Director is pleased; Group is balanced

As always, the Christmas program was a highlight for the Chorale, and according to Director Don Grant, "This was a real quality performance."

"The Chorale is a very well-balanced group," Mr. Grant said. "The group is pretty well even as to the number of people in each section."

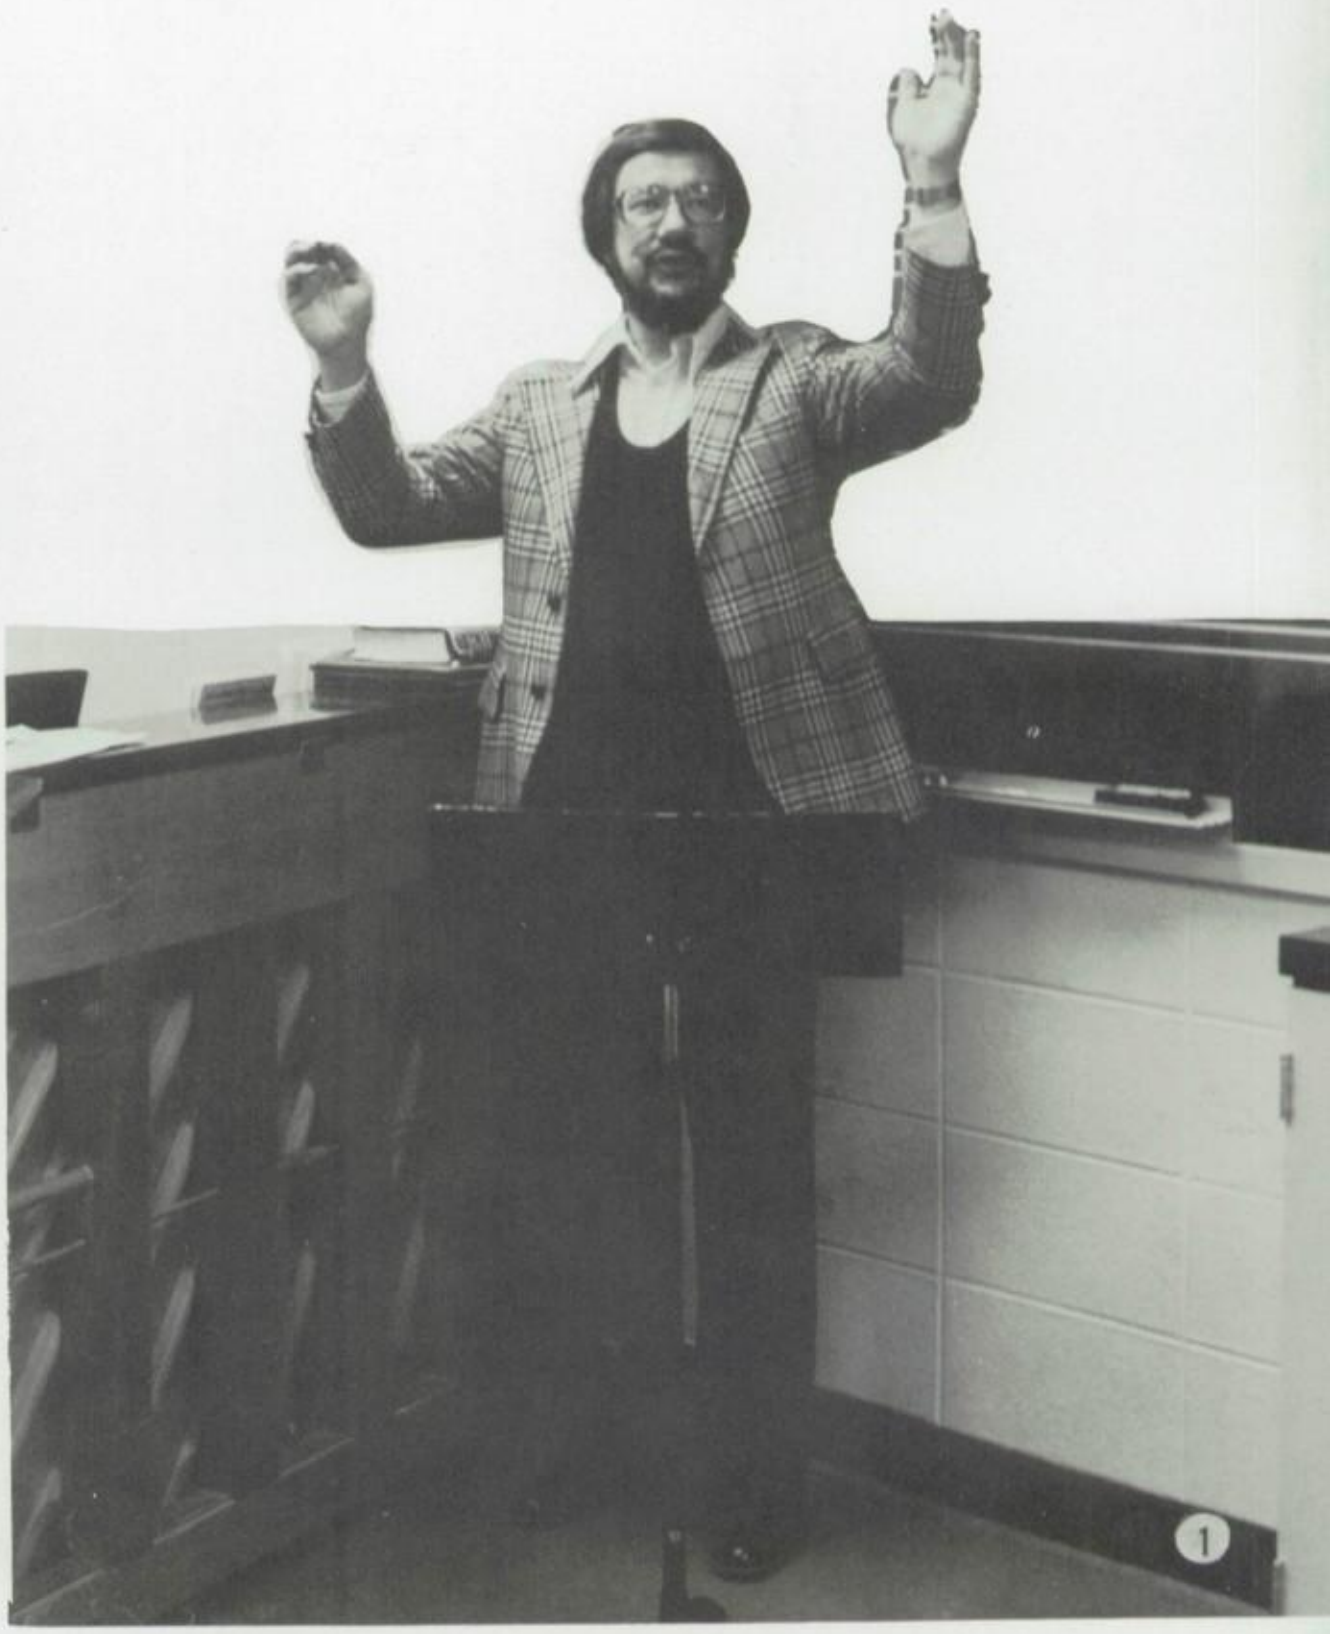
In February, the Chorale presented the musical, "Oklahoma." The production was payed for by the Chorale's candy sale.

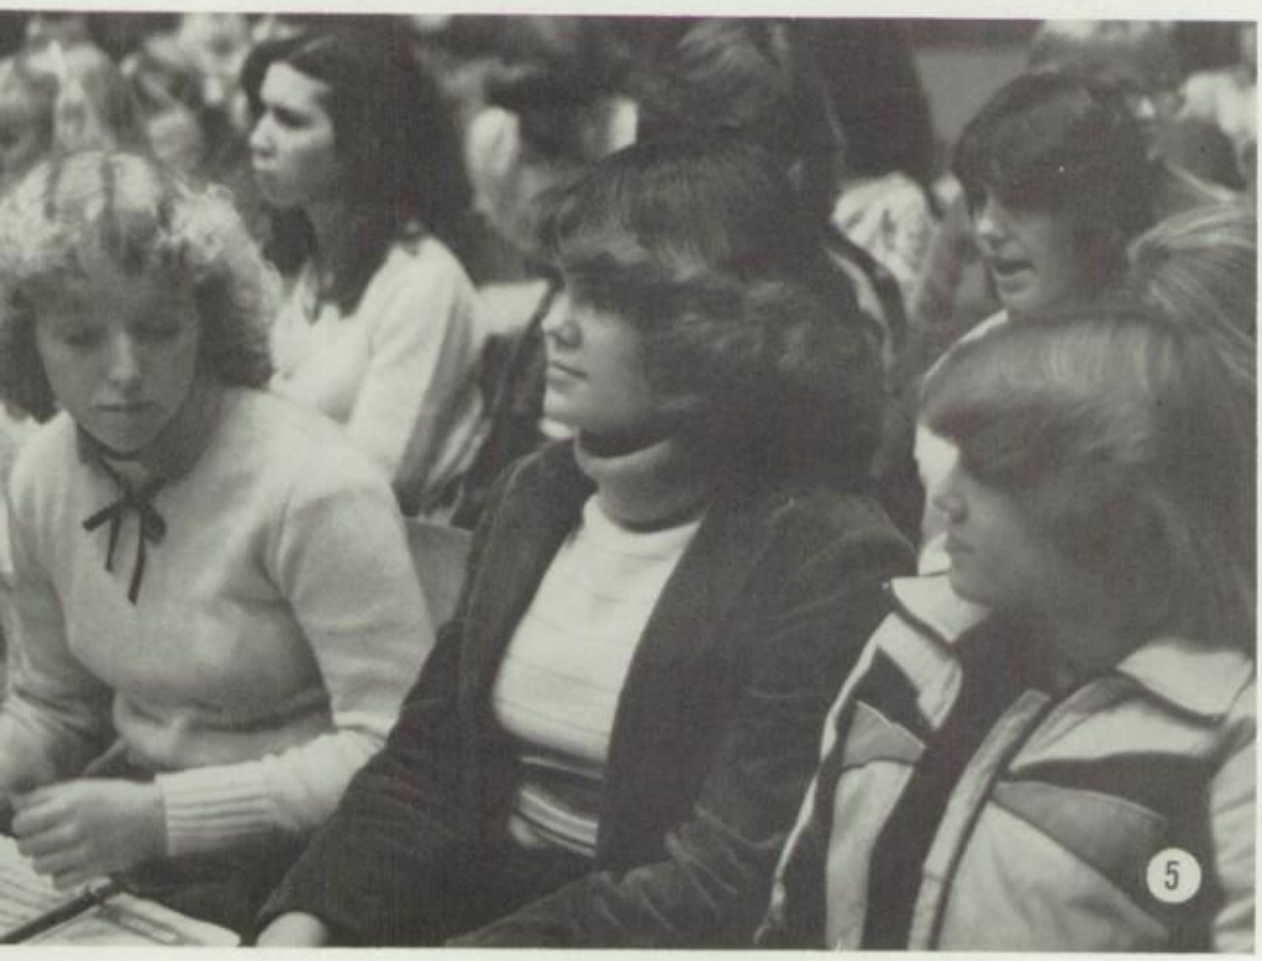
On December 6, members of the Chorale competed in the Kansas Music Educators Association competition which was held at Emporia State University. There were seven members of the Chorale chosen to represent the Emporia District at the State competition.

Chorale members presented the Fall Concert October 22 and the Spring Concert in May along with other music groups.

They held their annual pizza parties after the Fall Concert, Spring Concert, and the second night of the Christmas program. They also planned a picnic in the spring.

"I expected big things from them, and so far I haven't been disappointed," said Mr. Grant.





Mixed Ensemble sings very early

A morning performance at 7:15 a.m. for the Lyons Club Breakfast was a first for the Mixed Ensemble. "Performing at 7:15 in the morning made it really hard for us to stay on pitch," said Lisa Mitchell, jr.

By December, approximately fourteen performances had been given by the Girls' and Mixed Ensembles.

For the first time, the ensembles performed for some of the grade schools. They also had a performance in Cottonwood Falls.

Only twice in fourteen performances were the ensembles forced to miss any classes. Many of their performances were done in off-school time.

The members of Girls' and Mixed Ensembles were also members of Chorale, and were juniors and seniors. The Mixed Ensemble was made up of half boys and half girls.

Men's section adds strength to group

"A very well-rounded men's section this year allowed us to do some really neat things," said Concert Choir Director Maxine Mitchell.

The Concert Choir combined with the Treble and Bell Choirs for the song, "Be Merry, Good People," for the Christmas Program. "Depending upon our size and balance, we might try something like this again in coming years," Mrs. Mitchell said. "It was very well received."

The Concert Choir performed in the Fall Concert with other groups and alone in their Spring Concert. "We featured the men's group in the song, 'Babe'," said Mrs. Mitchell.

Difficult Italian song performed by Choir

A major accomplishment for the Treble Choir was performing an Italian song, "O Pastorelle Addio." They performed this, and one other song, as part of the Music Festival in Wichita on April 1. Director Don Grant said before the performance, "I expect them to do well. They will be proud."

According to Mr. Grant, having the Treble Choir join the Concert and Bell Choirs in the song, "Be Merry, Good People," was a good idea that may be carried on in following years.

The Treble Choir was made up of about fifty percent freshmen. "Some of the girls will surely carry over to Treble Choir again next year," said Mr. Grant.

The Choir held a picnic in the spring and attended the pizza parties after the Christmas Program and the Fall and Spring Concerts.

Young Band pulls together

A highlight for the Spartan Marching Band was being awarded all ones at the Neewollah competition, November 1. The three ones were awarded for competition in Street Marching, Half Time Performance and Flag Team. When asked how he felt about the competition, Band Director David Hodges said, "So there! We did it!"

"I was looking for this year to be a rebuilding year for us," explained Mr. Hodges. "We lost a lot of seniors last year, so our band is really young and somewhat inexperienced," he said. "We took the approach that we just might not have what it takes to be an excellent band."

For the first time, the Marching Band presented a concert for parents and others September 4. "The concert went over very well and gave the kids a chance to shake some of their jitters," said Mr. Hodges.

A prayer session before the competition at Neewollah made a lasting impression on all Band members. "We all just needed to be one, so we got together, held hands and prayed," said Mr. Hodges. "This really made us feel united and gave us much confidence and determination."

The Marching Band began practicing the last part of July for two hours a day. When school started, they practiced from 7:30 a.m. to 9:00 a.m. This did not include the individual time that was spent at home.

The Band's performances included half time shows, their concert, Com-Cam, Kansas University and Emporia State Band Days, Emporia State Homecoming, the Veterans' Day Parade and the Christmas Parade.

(2) Drum major Don Alcorn, sr., leads the Band in their marching routines October 17. (3) Directing the Band during its half-time performance October 17 is Director David Hodges. (4) After much hard work, the Spartan drummers demonstrate their talent at the Pigskin half time performance.

Ones highlight year

Receiving ones at the state contest, held April 3 and 4, was a highlight for the Symphonic Band. Before the performance, Director David Hodges said, "With fingers crossed I hope we get ones. These kids have the ability; they just need the desire."

"The Symphonic Band is a select performing group," said Director David Hodges. "I select them on the premise of their class playing."

"Our first concert was a very good concert," said Mr. Hodges. "Our Spring Concert was a light one which featured special selections and solos." The band performed on January 15 and May 12. On March 4 they held a Band Clinic and Concert.

The Symphonic Band performed for the Middle School in the spring. They also took part in the Band Banquet, which honored band members. "About 350 people from the school and community usually attend," commented Mr. Hodges.

Band eager to learn

"This year's band is the best Concert Band I've ever had while here at the high school," said Director David Hodges.

The band competed in the State Contest April 3 and 4. "In previous years they've received 2's, and I expect much the same this year," Mr. Hodges said before the performance.

All but two of the members are freshmen and sophomores, according to Mr. Hodges. "We work a lot on fundamentals, and these kids are really eager to learn," he said.

The Concert Band performed in the Winter Concert on January 15. "They had a lot of stage fright in our first concert, but they soon got over that," commented Mr. Hodges. The band also performed in the Band Clinic on March 4, and in their own Spring Concert April 28.

Year's first concert pleasing to director

"I feel our first concert this year was the best that a Stage Band has ever performed since I have been here at the high school," said David Hodges, Stage Band Director. "I only hope that they will keep building on that."

The Stage Band performed at the Jazz Festival on March 7. "About 12 of the best bands in the area were invited to attend, including us," Mr. Hodges said.

The Stage Band worked very hard in playing for the basketball games and pep assemblies. "We learned over forty new tunes in order to prepare for this year's season," Mr. Hodges added.

The Stage Band performed with guest trumpet player Jay Sollenberger in a concert on November 20. Another concert on February 26 included guest trumpet player Ron McCurdy. The Stage Band performed alone on May 5.

Orchestra travels to State; Six chosen to play All-State

Six members of Orchestra were chosen for the Kansas All-State Orchestra. These members were Mary Garcia, Kaaren Fleisher, Mark Hodowanec, Becky Atherton, Mark Wright and Mitch Faddis. Mitch, however, could not attend because of a conflict with the state swim meet, and he was replaced by Brelana Johnson.

Orchestra competed in the State Contest in April. "They've always done well in the past," said Director Donald Kile before the contest, "and this year should be no exception."

Orchestra members began practice for the musical "Oklahoma" approximately five weeks before the performance. "All musicals are difficult; this one really offered a challenge for us," said Mr. Kile. "There were some difficult spots, but I think the group did a very competent job."

The Orchestra played an important part in the Christmas Program. According to Mr. Kile, "It was beautiful, just excellently done."

The Orchestra also played for graduation exercises and performed three concerts open to the public. These concerts were held on October 15, March 25, and May 13.

Orchestra members planned picnics in the fall and spring. After their Fall Concert, they gathered at Mr. Kile's house where they were entertained by his two-man band.

Home Ec. patterns change to metrics

Favorite activities in the Home Economics Department were special dinners. As a final test for the Foods I class, students invited someone, preferably a mother or father, to school for a light brunch prepared by the students.

Instructor Judy Tibbetts enjoyed the Retired Teachers' Taffy Pull and the Wise Cook Dinner the most. "They offer a variety of guests and more of a challenge to the students," said Mrs. Tibbetts.

The department began a new exchange program with Haynes Hardware. When a new model of equipment came out, Haynes took out the old model and installed the new one. The school paid a minimal fee, basically for service calls.

Home Economics teachers noticed several patterns changing to the metric system. "I think the sooner we make the switch, the better," said Department Chairman Eleanor Burenheide.

According to first year instructor Janet Blaufuss, a favorite class for clothing students was the Lingerie class. Miss Blaufuss said that the students "make neat things every year that they don't think they can make."

In Shirley Schoap's Guiding Young Lives class, the students visited a day care center to observe child behavior. Mrs. Schoap took her Housing class students to a solar-heated home.

Industrial Arts classrooms packed with 85% capacity

All Industrial Arts classes filled to an 85% capacity of enrollment. Richard McCoy, department chairman, explained that many classes closed early during spring enrollment. "We're pretty well happy with our current classes because they meet our objectives," said Mr. McCoy.

Crafts and Auto Ownership classes were two quarter classes that were full. First year teacher John Wyrick, who was a student teacher here last year, commented that the class he enjoyed most was Auto Ownership. "I enjoy saving the students money or helping them do something to their car that maybe they couldn't do before," said Mr. Wyrick.

The department will offer four semester classes next year in Auto Ownership to cover for the enrollment in that particular class. The electricity and housewiring class, a semester class, will be two quarter classes next year due to small enrollment now. "It's kind of hard to stretch the material from a quarter class into a semester class," said Instructor Wayne Eikenberry.

Senior John Muckenthaler was chosen by the four Industrial Arts faculty members as Industrial Arts student of the year. John has taken almost every class offered in Industrial Arts and was treasurer of the Industrial Arts Club.

Drafting class traveled to Barton County Junior College April 10 for a drafting competition. Students from all classes toured the Buick, Oldsmobile, Pontiac Auto Plant and the Armco Steel Plant in Kansas City.

18 sent to All-State; Classes plan picnics

The Music Department hosted the Kansas Music Educators Association on December 6. At the contest, music students tried out for All State Choir, Orchestra, and Band. Emporia sent seven Chorale members, seven Orchestra members and four Band members.

Chorale performed its first concert of the year October 22.

On December 2, the Chorale performed the ceremony which preceded the lighting of the Christmas lights downtown before the parade.

Chorale members raised money once more by selling candy. The money was used in presenting the musical, "Oklahoma," on February 18 and 19.

The Orchestra performed their annual Fall Concert October 15. This fall they also planned a picnic and played for several grade schools.

The Orchestra worked hard during the year to prepare the music for "Oklahoma," which they presented along with the Chorale. The year was ended by the traditional Spring Concert.

For the first time, the Marching Band presented a Fall Concert. "It gave the band an early goal to work for," said Director David Hodges. "We had a larger turnout for this concert than any other band concert."

The Band marched in several parades, including the Homecoming, Veteran's Day, and Christmas parades. They traveled to Independence, Kansas, for a marching band contest, coming home proudly with all one ratings.

On February 3, a band from Augsburg College, Minneapolis, Minnesota, performed a concert for the music students.

The bands ended the year with the annual Spring Concert.

"The band program is beginning to be stable and the kind of program I want it to be," said Instructor David Hodges. "The students take pride in it, but it does take much time and hard work."

New wall separates rooms, aids in Art Dept. instruction

A new wall between the 2-D and 3-D areas made instruction easier in the Art Department. "The wall is an advantage," said Department Chairman Jerry Troxell. "It cuts down on the noise level from power tools, and there is less clay and dust flying through the area."

The department also purchased a new laminator which aids in the photography department.

Art students displayed their own work at the Emporia Public Library. Students interested in the display brought their work to school when the pieces to be displayed were chosen.

Enrollment was up in the 3-D area. "Every year the 3-D area grows in numbers of students," said Instructor Debra Maxwell. "Each year they seem to be more advanced."

The ceramic department gained a new area, glass blowing. "We have the only high school glass blowing department in the state of Kansas," said Teacher Joe Stellwagon. "We have a very good department. It is probably the best high school art department in Kansas," he said.

By the end of the year, the ceramic area planned to purchase a Raku kiln which was to be placed in the court outside the Art Department.

"This year really isn't much different than last," said Mr. Troxell. "I do seem to stay awake in class more than ever before."

Spectrophotometer bought for Geology

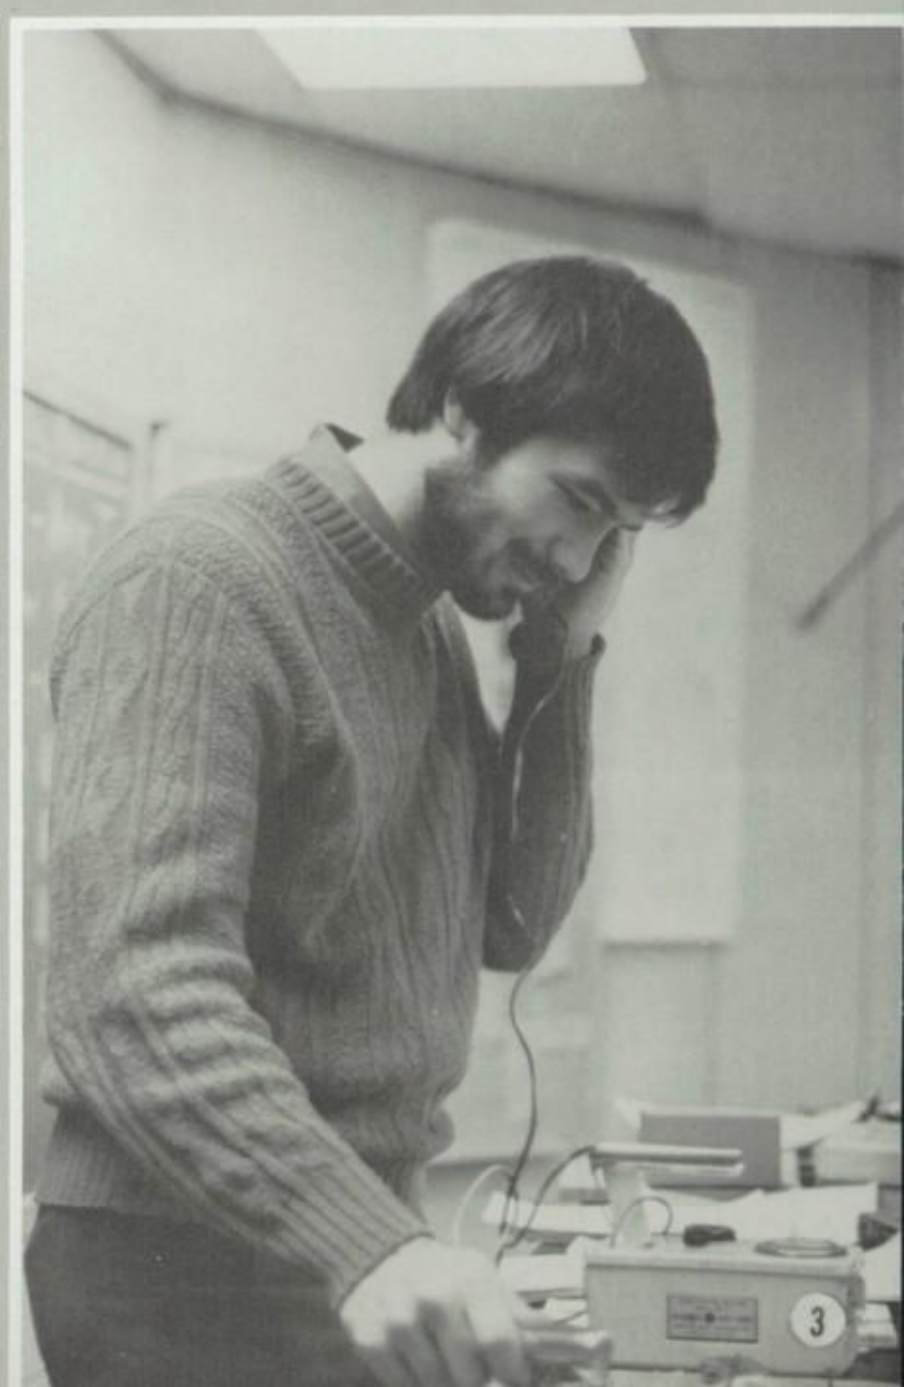
Five thousand dollars worth of new equipment, including a new rock grinder and polisher and a spectrophotometer, used to measure parts per milia of solids in solutions, was purchased by the Science Department for Geology class.

A new class, Advanced Placement Chemistry taught by Clarence Howland, was added. "The Board decided they needed it," said Mr. Howland. "It was for gifted, college-bound students." Chemistry I was a prerequisite for enrollment in the class.

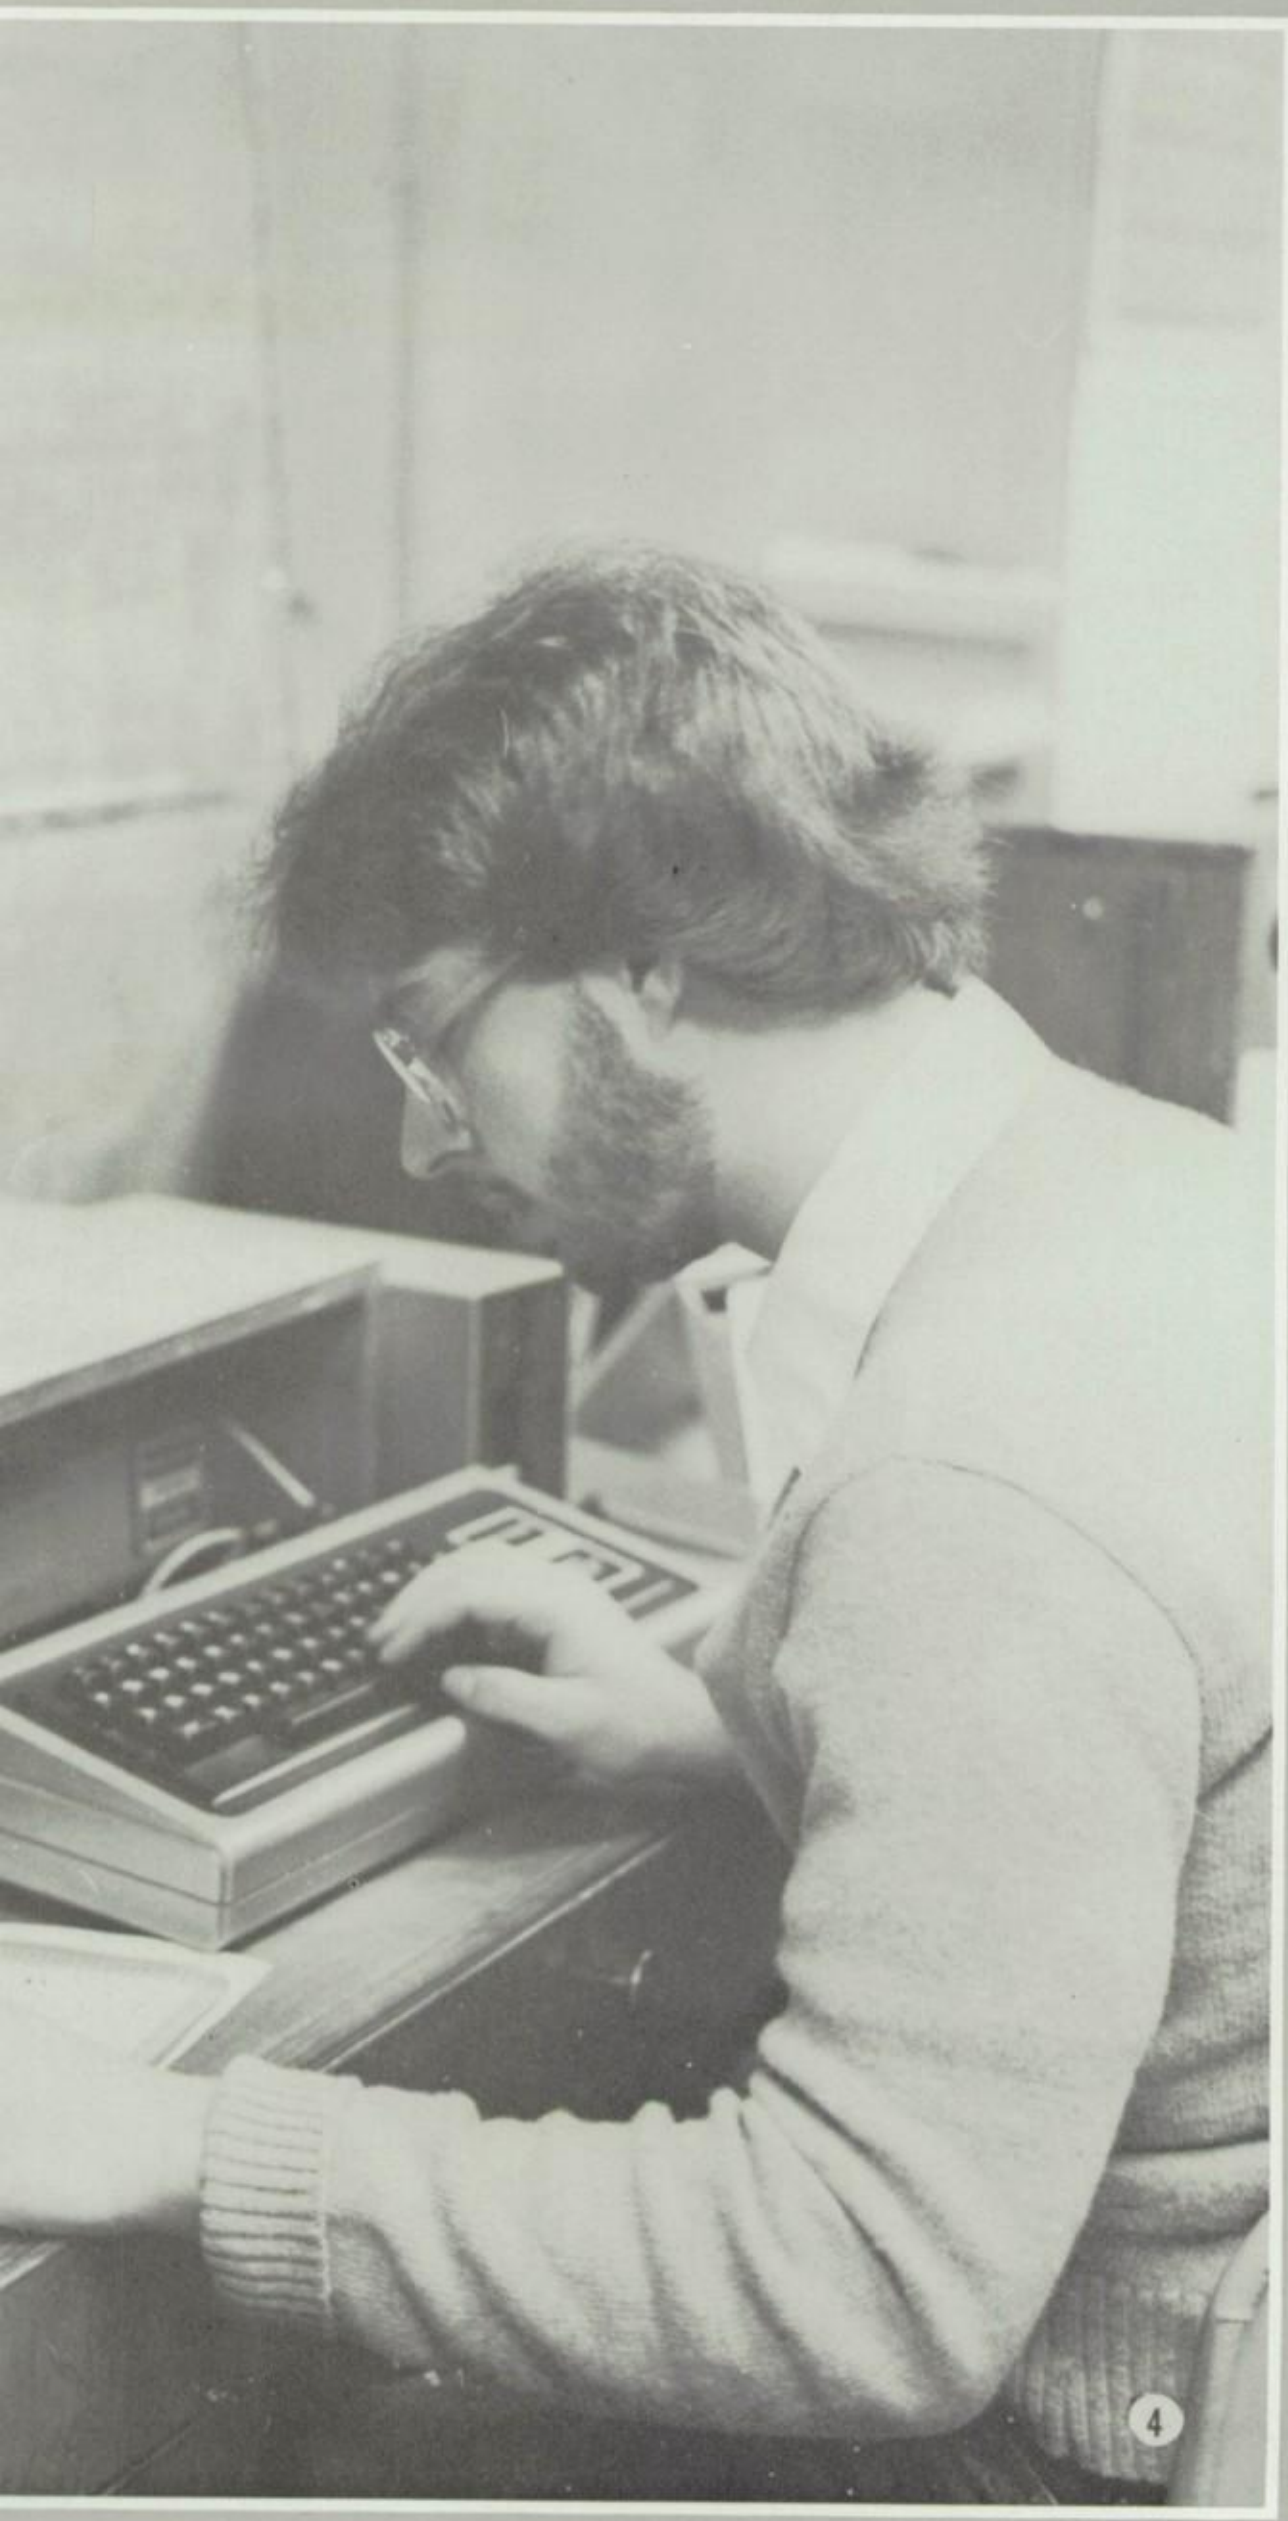
John Harclerode added the Anatomy and Physiology class to his teaching schedule. "It was fun, very challenging," said Mr. Harclerode about the class. "It required a lot of outside work and preparation on my part. It was worth the extra effort," he added.

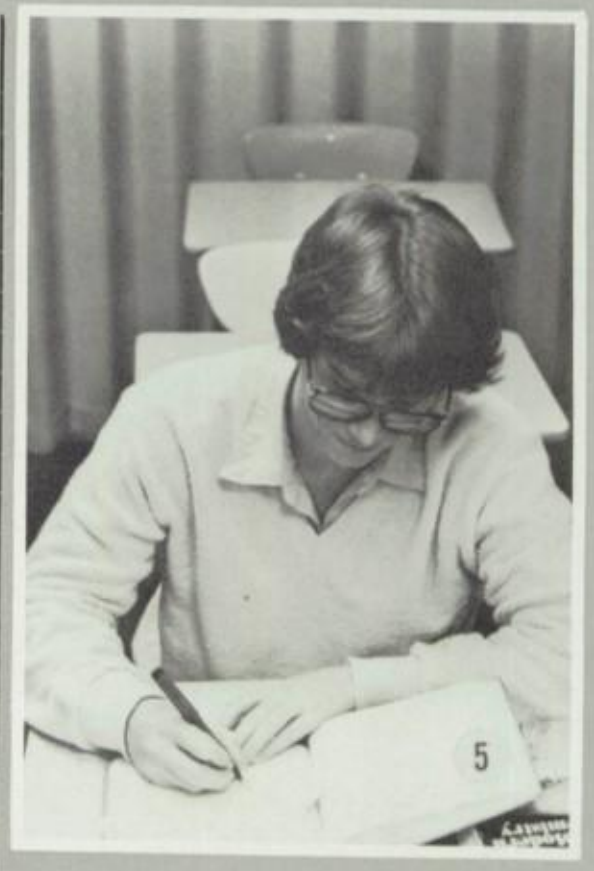
Physics, Applied Lab Science, and Photography were taught by Steve Buster, a new teacher.

Total enrollment in the department was about the same, with biology enrollment going up and science going down.



(1) Experimenting with the charges of electrons in Chemistry II is Terri Ikerd, sr. (2) Scott Mullendore, soph., studies plants in his biology class for different classifications. (3) Gregory Bennett counts the radiation of rocks using a Geiger counter. (4) Constructing a man on the screen of a micro-computer is Senior Bob Haselhuhn. (5) Junior Mark Stukey works on his assignment in Algebra II - Trigonometry.





Algebra, Geometry class enrollment up

The Math Department purchased two new micro-computers for General Math, Applied Math and Computer Programming classes. "They were used for game simulation, drill work, to show speed and accuracy in practical applications, and finally for students to gain understanding how to program them," explained Gene Tibbetts, head of the department. The computers were also used by interested students outside of classroom time.

A new quarter class, Programming Micro-computers, was added. The class could be repeated for another quarter credit on an optional basis. New textbooks were purchased for the Algebra I and Geometry classes. "They were written more explicitly than the other books," explained Mr. Tibbetts.

Enrollment in Algebra I, Algebra II, and Geometry classes was up, causing the department enrollment, as a whole, to rise. When asked why, Mr. Tibbetts commented, "I don't know why, but I hope it's the awareness of the need for math by the students."

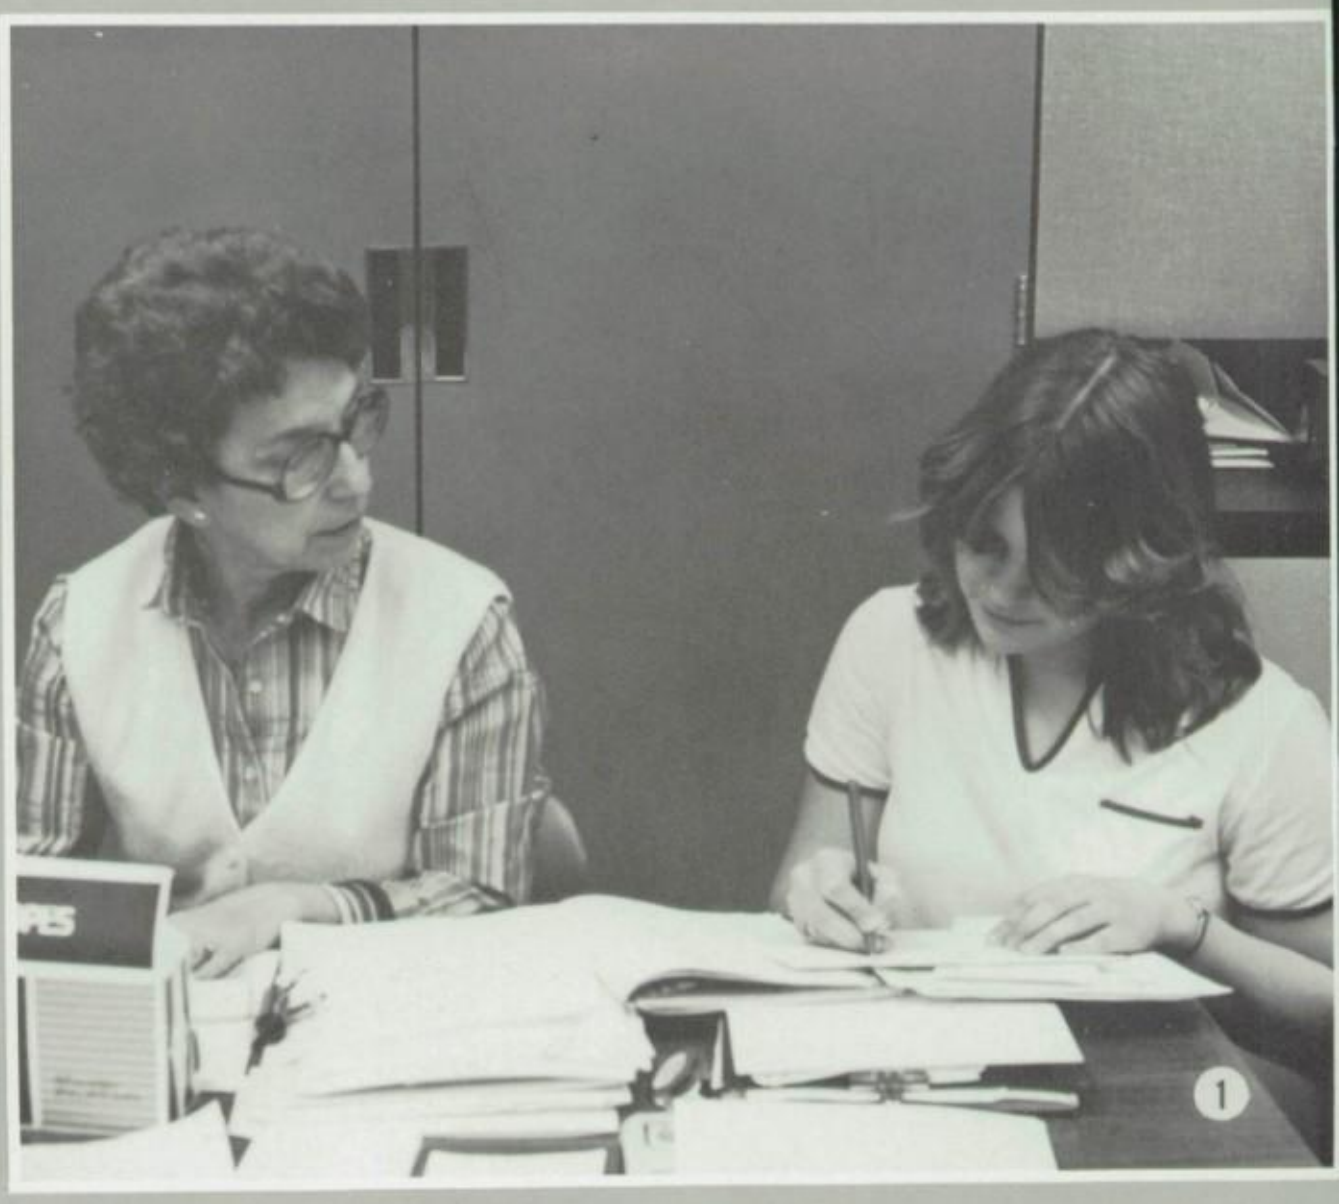
Twenty-two enrolled in new Prep class

The Language Arts Department added a new class, Advanced Placement College Prep class. Twenty-two students enrolled in the class. At the end of the year, some students in the class tried to quiz out of English hours in college.

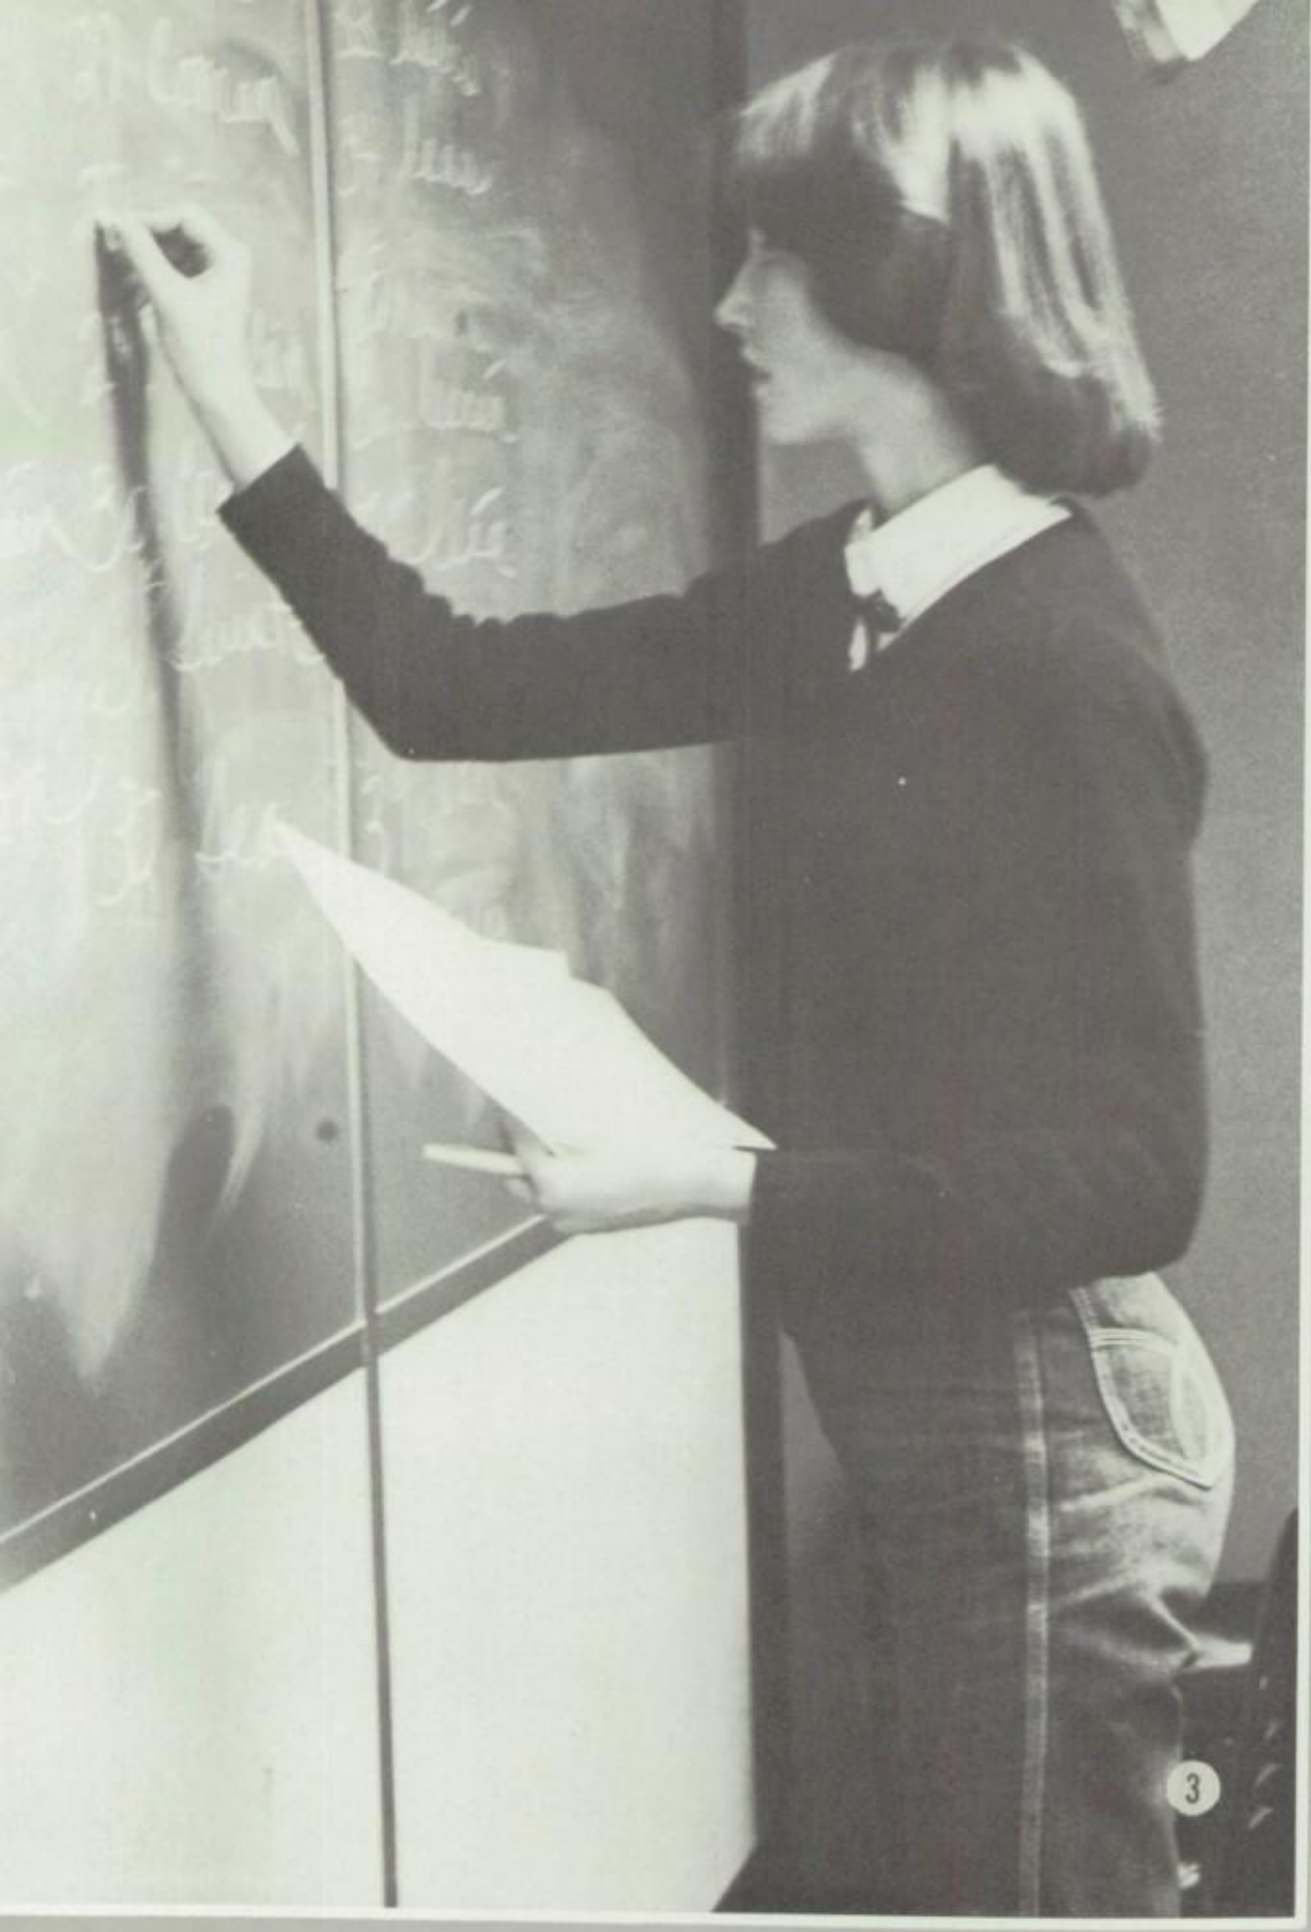
In October, Department Chairman Dee Schwinn, Instructor Sharon Stevens, and 31 students from the College Prep, Humanities, and Medieval Mythology classes attended a Renaissance Festival at Bonner Springs near Kansas City. There they observed the time period of the Renaissance. Booths, crafts, and plays were among the activities.

Approximately 40 students competed in a Language Arts Olympics in November at ESU. Students competed in grammar, spelling, vocabulary, reading and writing. Over 500 students from different schools competed. Kaaren Fleisher, sr., placed within the top five in the writing contest. "I thought it was a valuable experience. At first I dreaded it, but once I got into the topic, I thought it was really interesting," said Kaaren.

"Department enrollment was down," commented Mrs. Schwinn, "but there is a continued interest in the quarter classes."



(1) Learning about business education is Terri Selby, jr., with help from Fran Hartzler. (2) Seniors Sheila Jamison and Lisa McMurphey interpret a story in their Selective Reading class. (3) Lisa Kelly, fr., writes Spanish verbs on the board for her Spanish II class. (4) Senior Lisa Hall climbs — and later falls off of — Jacob's Ladder at the Renaissance Festival October 4.



Language classes celebrate holidays

Enrollment was up in the Foreign Language Department, especially in the beginning classes. "French I and Spanish I increased the most," commented Department Chairman Tom Fowler.

German I, II, III, and IV classes celebrated Christmas at students' houses. The German I party was in the home of Freshman Linda Gunkel. Parents of Senior Eric Edwards hosted the German II, III and IV party. At both parties, students ate German foods such as sauerkraut and wieners, German spice cookies, and apple strudel. Afterwards they played cards.

Last summer, Instructor Chuck Peoples and several students from German classes traveled to Germany, Austria and England. Highlights of the trip included visits to a concentration camp in Dachau, the Hofbrau House and the Olympic Village in Munich, and the Hohensalzburg castle in Salzburg. "My favorite part was when we went to the Salzburg castle because you could see the Alps," said Jennifer Wycoff, sr.

Spanish III and IV classes attended a dinner at Mr. Fowler's house. The students each fixed a Spanish dish. Spanish II, III and IV classes planned a cooking demonstration in which they prepared tortillas and tacos.

French students performed French plays in French II class. The students performed "Le Maitre Pathelin" and another play sent from KU. "The plays were sent from KU because the students competed there," said Instructor Jim Knott.

Latin teacher Dee Schwinn changed her teaching technique to an individual approach instead of a classroom approach. "Some sophomores had to take the class (Latin II) a different hour than it was scheduled," explained Mrs. Schwinn.

Adv. Soph. History views 'Connections'

Advanced Sophomore History was an added class in the Social Science Department. "Class enrollment was up mainly because of Sophomore History since it's a required class. It's holding its own," said Harvey Foyle, head of the Social Science Department. The video-tape machine, purchased by the library, was used a great deal by the Social Science classes.

The 20's and 30's classes and the Recent American History classes each added new paperback texts.

Department Chairman Harvey Foyle spent ten Saturdays video-taping the TV program "Connections." His Advanced Sophomore History classes watched the video-tape, which showed how one invention led to the discovery of another. Then the students picked a topic and did research to show what had to be invented to produce the subject they chose.

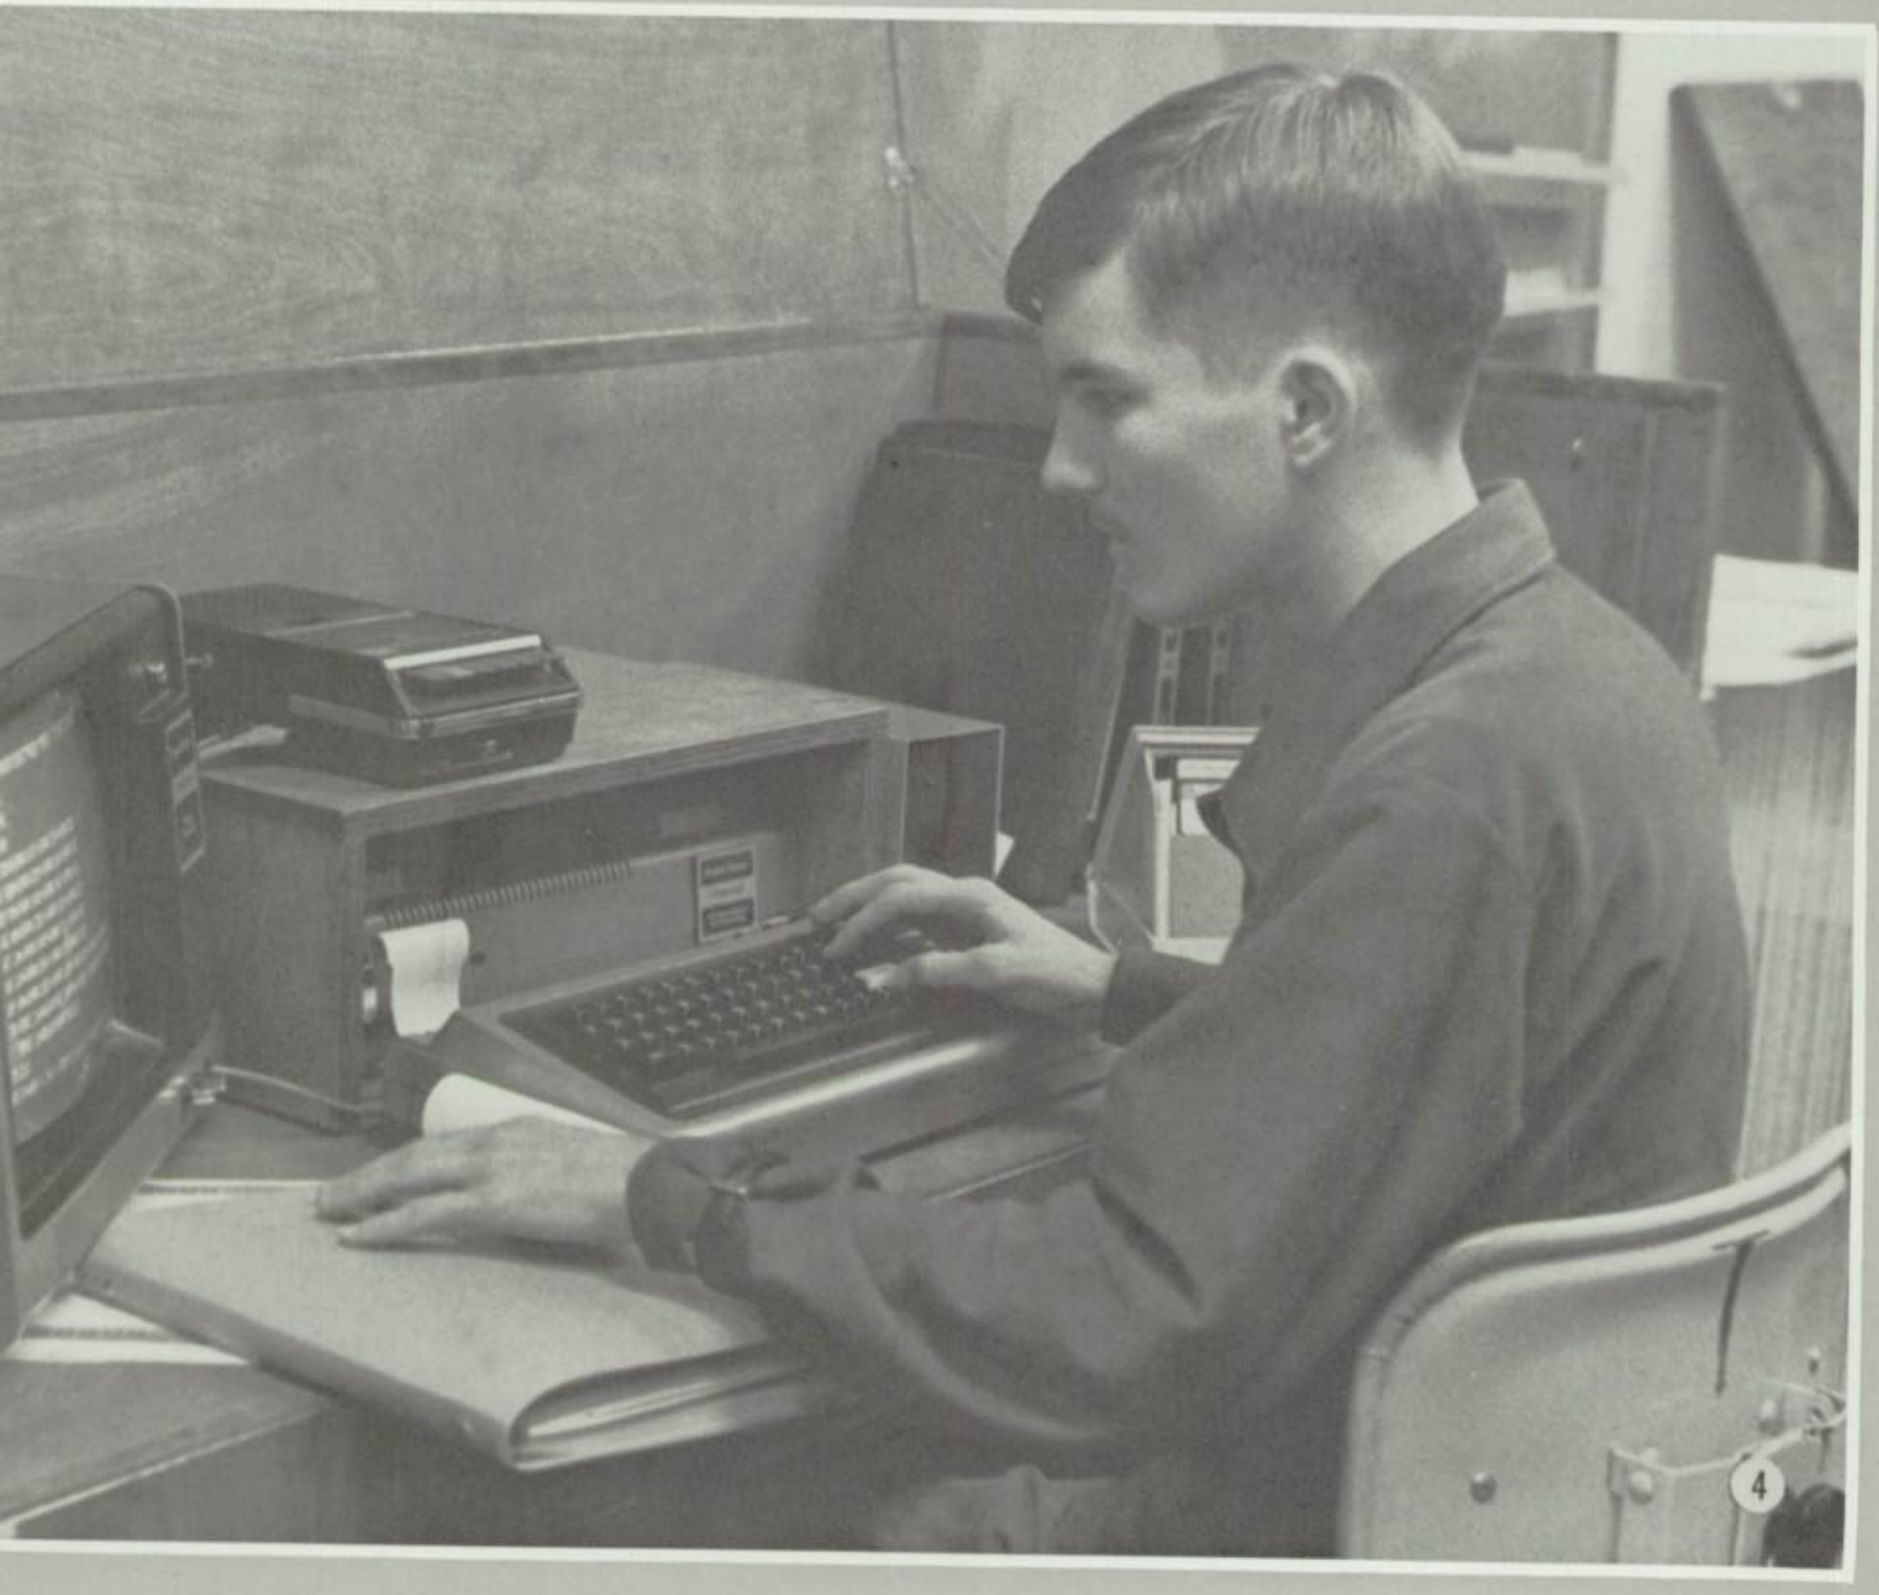
Radio Shack Computer used in 2nd Sem. Business classes

The Business Department utilized a Radio Shack computer during second semester Office Procedures class and Intro. to Data Processing class. In Office Procedures, students could type a letter, choose a format and direct the printer to type out a hard copy. "We hope this is a start to be able to get additional equipment," said Instructor Liz Voorhees.

Students in Business Law class took a trip to the Municipal Court, according to Department Chairman Harold Rains. The students observed a court in session and talked to the judge.

Mrs. Voorhees' Office Procedures class visited the Micom, Inc. Word Processing Center here in Emporia December 12. "I thought it was a good experience for everyone to get acquainted with business today," commented Brenna Freeman, jr., about the trip.



Phys. Education Department adds new quarter classes

One of the new activities for P.E. classes was team handball, taught by Pat Sands and his teacher aide.

Softball/Volleyball and Badminton/Tennis were two new classes, strictly for juniors and seniors. "It's a fun class," commented Lisa Larsen, jr., about the Softball/Volleyball class.

"The volleyball part was the best part," said Teena Blazer, jr., referring to the same class.

The department purchased new soccer goals. Other equipment has merely been replaced.

EMH, TMH classes plan holiday dance

TMH and EMH students joined together for a Valentine's Day dance February 13 planned by TMH students.

Both classes entered the Special Olympics in Salina February 6 and 7, competing against students from all over Kansas in volleyball and bowling.

EMH students planned a carnival in the Flint Hills Mall to raise money for the Olympics. They set up thirty booths plus a moonwalk and cakewalk.

Food preparation was a favorite activity for EMH students. Their student teacher, a Hawaiian, helped them prepare a Hawaiian dinner. During second semester, they set up a restaurant for teachers in Room 207. The students were waiters and waitresses, busers and cooks.

TMH students took a once-a-month trip to the bank to deposit money earned from cleaning tables in the lunch room commons. Afterwards, they shopped and went out for lunch.

In honor of Thanksgiving, TMH students prepared a dinner of vegetable soup and pumpkin pie; at Christmas, the students drew names and exchanged gifts.

On the last day for seniors, TMH students planned a reception for the three TMH seniors and their parents

Kayettes host Variety Show; Proceeds go to Cancer Fund

Kayette Club members and a few non-members presented a fashion show for the first time with help from the Guy's Shop, The Villager, and The Clothes Closet. "The fashion show was very well done and gave us the opportunity to see what was available in town to buy," said Freshman Lisa Kelly.

An ice cream party for freshman girls was one of the first club activities of the year. It gave freshmen the chance to ask questions about Kayettes and helped get them interested in the club.

Profits from the Variety Show, about $200, went to the Cancer Fund. Two popular acts were the Faculty Quartet and the band, Physical Abuse.

The top salesperson in the holly sales, Michelle Nee, received a gift certificate from Maurice's. Money from holly sales was used for a girl-ask-guy dance.

The girl-ask-guy dance March 28 featured the disc jockey V100. The theme of the dance was "Celebration." "It's the only dance of its kind," said Julie Sauder, club president.

The father-daughter banquet featured Toy Caldwell-Colbert, a psychologist at Emporia State, as the speaker. Entertainment for the banquet was Top Drawer Priority, a girls' quartet.

Guest speakers appeared at several Kayette meetings. Two cosmetologists, Donna Whitney and Linda Carter, demonstrated make-up techniques. Pat McClenny, a representative from S.O.S., talked about S.O.S. (sexual offense services). In April, Wanda Mae Vincent, the founder of Kayettes, explained how Kayettes was founded.

"The highlight for me for all four years was just being able to be president for two years," said Julie.

Spartans support athletes, sponsor Coke, popcorn party

Sponsoring a Coke and popcorn party in honor of all winter sports athletes was a first for Spartan Club. "It was nice they did it, and it made us feel wanted," said basketball player Jeff Cravens.

They also sponsored two jeans dances which were put on just to give people something to do. "We made a lot of money," said President Janice Butts, "and people enjoyed it."

The Spartan Club put on the Pigskin Dance featuring the band Monarch. Colors were peach, brown and white, and the theme of the dance was "Make a Little Magic."

Once again club members sold Valentine suckers. Messages were attached to suckers and delivered on Friday, February 13, first hour.

During poster parties, several club members stayed after school to paint posters for different sports activities.

Spartan Club's main goal was to get everyone spirited and to get more people to come to games. "The main reason I ran for president was that I wanted to keep spirit up," said Janice.

StuCo holds chain contest; Class competition promoted

During the Christmas season, StuCo sponsored the first Chain Link Contest to encourage class competition. The contest raised $100 of Christmas money for two needy families.

StuCo sponsored two assemblies, the Campus Life and the Veterans' Day assemblies. They also sponsored the Mini-float Contest, won by Black Market, and the Winter Sports Mini-hoop Contest won by the freshman class. They bought a coffee pot for the faculty lounge, sponsored the Christmas Window Contest, decorated the Christmas tree for the front office, and served cake and punch to faculty members for Valentine's Day.

StuCo continued to work on a food committee which met every month to discuss complaints in the food department. They also loaned money to any club that needed it. For example, Model UN borrowed money to pay off the frisbees that they bought; then they repaid StuCo.

"I really enjoy working with the students," said Sponsor Candy Hodge. "They show more responsibility, and they all represent Emporia High very well."

SAFE Committee discusses problems

One of the main problems members of S.A.F.E. discussed and solved was the walking out problem at pep assemblies. S.A.F.E. members decided to move the microphone to the other end of the gym. Other problems discussed were types of money-making projects for the different organizations and how to get more students involved in school spirit.

Administration members of the committee were Jerry Baumgardner, Jack Mitchell, and Bob Smith or Jerry Brown. The faculty members included a first-year teacher, a head counselor, an experienced teacher new to EHS, the sponsor of the school publications, an experienced teacher at EHS, a department chairperson, and one additional teacher.

The S.A.F.E. Committee was established to provide a method of free and active communication among students, faculty and administration. It was the main objective to identify and discuss common school problems which face everyone connected with school.

Members attend Nationals, Regionals during summer

FBLA club members Jay Larsen, Fred Polzin, Steve Woods, and Sponsor Elizabeth Voorhees attended the National Conference in Washington, D.C., July 1-4. Fred and Steve both won speaking awards and Jay was the State Executive Vice President.

Five students - Bob Baker, Jay Larsen, Paul Mason, Wilma Mason, Toni Rindom, and student teacher Karalin McKain attended the Mountain Plains Regional Conference in Jackson, Wyoming. "The knowledge that we gained was very beneficial," said Wilma. "Attending this conference really made the people from Kansas enthusiastic about FBLA."

Money-making projects included Tom Wat sales, Wrap-Co, and the concession stand during the Glacier's Edge Basketball Tournament. These projects brought in a total of about $1,500 profit.

This year was the first year for Wrap-Co. "When we started out with it, we thought it wouldn't turn out very well, but we made a pretty good profit, so it will probably become an annual event," commented Wilma.

"The profit from Wrap-Co will go to the National FBLA Building Fund," stated Mrs. Voorhees.

A dance was held November 6 and a skating party on February 4. The dance was attended by about 30 people from four area schools. The skating party brought 56 people from five schools.

Six hundred dollars raised from project

The Industrial Arts Club made over six hundred dollars when they constructed mini picnic tables and sold them to students and faculty for Christmas gifts. Some of the tables were given to faculty members at the faculty Christmas party.

Sponsors Paul Hastings and John Wyrick, and President Gail Fuller, sr., planned a barbecue for members and their parents. It was held in the shop so parents could see the equipment and work area.

A club bulletin board was made and put up by club members. Information such as club meetings, guest speakers, and special contests and activities sponsored by the club was posted on the board.

Members decorate Homecoming float

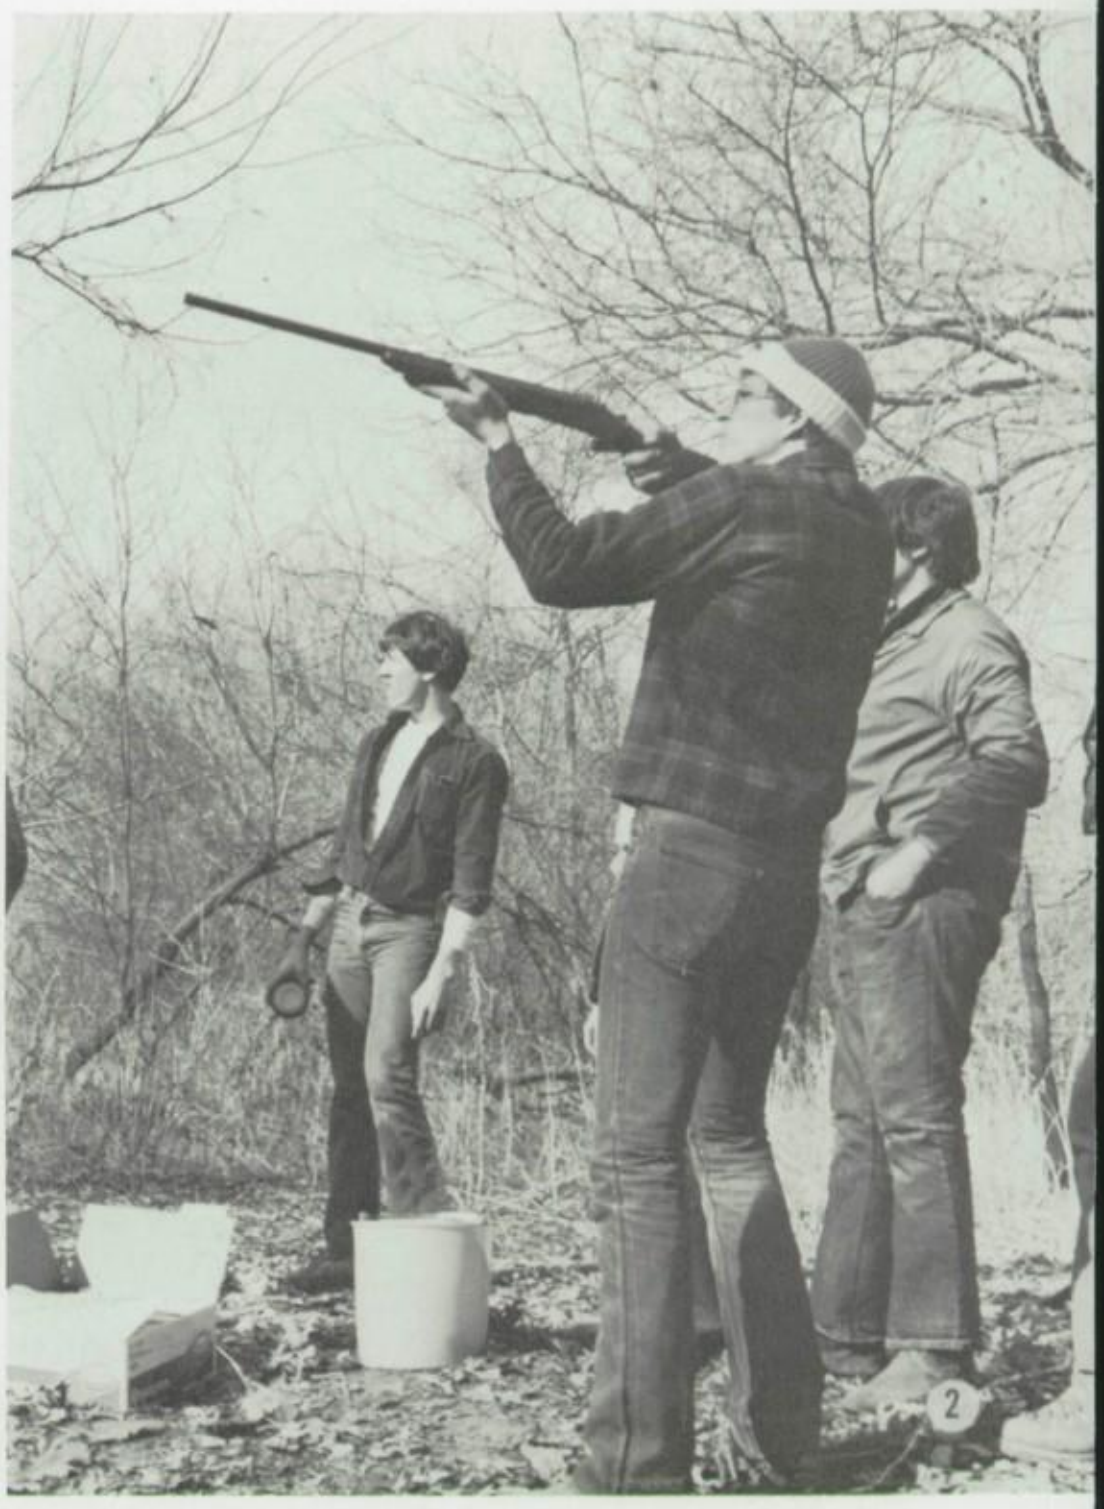
A float for the Homecoming parade was decorated by MAISO club members Joey Rios, sr., and sophomores Sandra Granada and Monica Rodriguez. Following the theme of "Make a Little Magic," the students designed a float showing a miniature football player featuring the words, "Hugg casts his spell."

One of the special activities sponsored by the club was a "Turkey of the Year" contest. Students could pay twenty-five cents to nominate someone as Turkey of the Year. The student winner was Sheryl Plank, sr., and faculty winner was Steve Buster. Pumpkin pies were given as prizes.

A concession stand was set up by the MAISO club at one of the home games.

Speakers discuss availability of jobs

BSO Club invited several guest speakers to discuss jobs and availability of jobs, according to Club Sponsor Joe Bywaters. A worker from the Kansas Job Employment Service and William King, Assistant Dean of Students at ESU, were two of the guest speakers. They talked about higher education and job opportunities. A field trip was planned for later in the year.



Campout, competition are held at Nelson's farm

Members and sponsors of Wildlife, Conservation, and Backpacking Club went on a winter campout January 17. Eleven students and five teachers loaded shotgun shells, shot clay pigeons, built fires, and went through a compass course. "It was all competitive, and the winner won a propane stove," said Sponsor John Harclerode.

Last summer, during the first week and a half of June, a group from the club traveled to Colorado. Another trip is scheduled for this summer. "It will be the last week of July and the first week of August, hopefully," stated Mr. Harclerode.

The trees around school were wrapped during December to protect them from wind, lawnmowers, rabbits, etc.

During the Glacier's Edge Basketball Tournament, club members sold T-shirts along with Black Market Club members. The shirts, which featured a silk-screen design by Marlina Lopez, sold for $4.75.

Computer software added to supplies

A successful mum sale by Math Club helped furnish money to buy software and supplies for their computer. Basketball concessions also aided in raising money for the purchase.

Math Club members competed in the ESU Math relays in October. "The mini computer was excellent," commented Senior Mike Paulonis. Besides competing in Math, the Math Club hosted two speakers. John Burger, an ESU professor, lectured on probability and statistics. Later in the year, Trevor Lewis, from Architect and Associates, lectured on architecture. The Math Club also kept the computer room open every Thursday night.

The purpose of Math Club was to provide supplimentary topics not available in class and to provide an opportunity to compete in mathemathics.

"The Math Club participation this year indicated an increase in math interest," said Sponsor Gene Tibbetts.

Membership of the club was up to 25.

Three members win speaking awards

Model U.N. members represented India, the United Kingdom, the Netherlands, and Rumania in two conferences. In the first conference at E.S.U. in November, seniors Alan Rowe, Steve Woods, and Dan Froelich each won speaking awards. The second conference lasted three days at Friends University in Wichita during March.

Money-making projects by Model U.N. began with the successful sale of frisbees. Managing the concession stand also provided needed money. The money raised helped to pay for the conferences.

Preparation for the conferences began with sessions on learning research techniques, working in the library, and simulated conferences.

Model U.N. members developed speaking abilities and knowledge of world news and situations through their work. "Students who would like to learn world politics, affairs, and solutions should join Model U.N.," commented Sponsor Virgil Dean.

Debaters win state; Two attend nationals

Senior debaters Mike Paulonis, Fred Polzin, Alan Rowe, and Steve Woods captured the 5A state championship January 4 at ESU. It was the first time in 18 years that Emporia had won state.

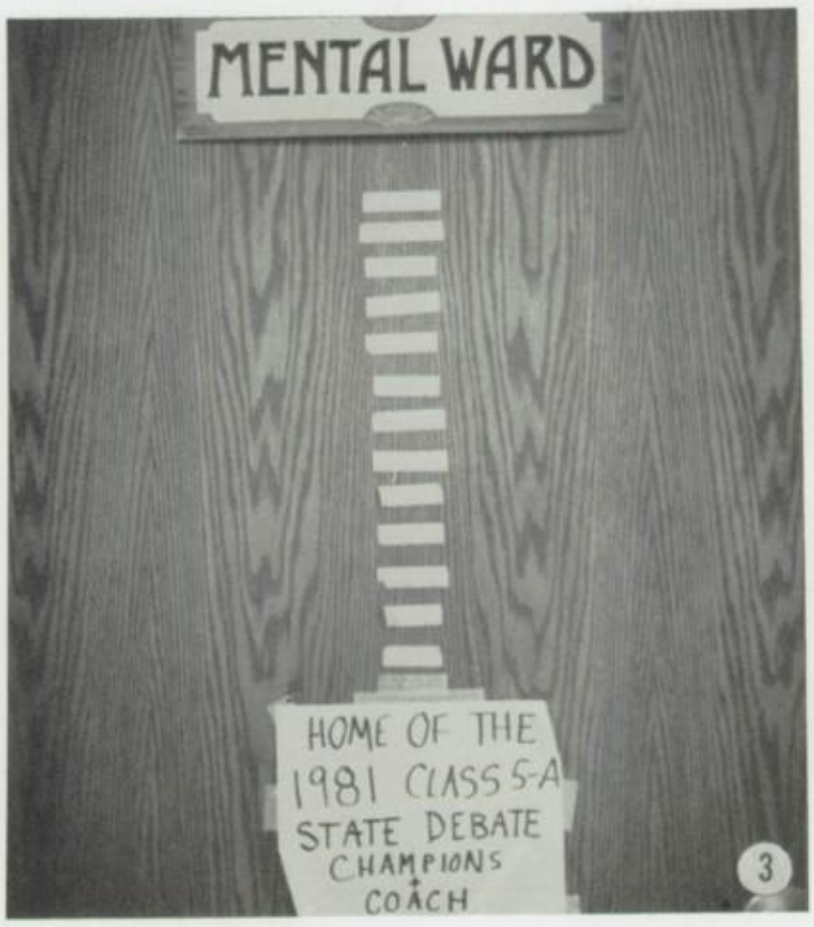
"Winning state puts you in a state of euphoria; as long as it lasts, it is the greatest natural high anyone can experience without anything artificial," said Debate Coach Albert Higgins.

Senior debater Alan Rowe said, "It was really cosmic; it was great to be finally recognized as the best in the state. We had a lot of bad breaks early in the season, but at state we pulled everything together."

Debate takes a great deal of time, but several of the senior debaters had no regrets about the time. Said senior debater Steve Woods, "My senior year exemplified all that is good about debate. It was fun, educational, and ultimately successful."

This year, along with sponsoring the winning team at the state tournament, Mr. Higgins was presented with an award for outstanding teacher in the field of speech. This honorary award was presented to both Mr. Higgins and his wife Virginia at the Albert and Virginia Higgins Debate Tournament at Pittsburg High School.

"We have a good chance of winning state again next year," said Mr. Higgins, "because we have an outstanding group of people coming back, and with their talent, they are capable of doing it again."



Forensics wins 14 medals; Four gain first place medals

Forensics attracted many new members according to Instructor Albert Higgins. "I'm not discouraged," said Mr. Higgins after the first few tournaments. "The people I expected to do well did. The newer ones are progressing fine."

By the middle of March, the Forensics squad had won 14 medals, 4 first place. They attended tournaments at Manhattan, Topeka High, Washburn Rural, Osage City, Wamego and Fort Scott.

The Forensics squad planned to attend a tournament at Hutchinson and the National Forensics League (NFL) at Manhattan High School.

Black Market Club gains experience making shirts, float

Black Market entered the Float Contest for the first time October 17, winning $50 for capturing first place. "We learned a lot about responsibility and the use of money," commented Marlina Lopez, sr.

Members of Black Market gained experience in organization, responsibility, and the use of money.

Selling T-shirts for the Glacier's Edge Tournament was a major money-making project. The shirt was designed by Senior Marlina Lopez, and stenciled by Student Teacher Mike Allen and Instructor Jerry Troxell. Conservation Club members and a few Black Market members sold the shirts. "It sure was a learning experience for me," said Mr. Troxell.

The Art Room was open every Wednesday from 6 to 8 p.m. by Black Market for students. The club sponsored an art exhibit for two weeks at the public library and rented a booth at the mall during the Flinthills Art Association in March along with holding an Art Bazaar at school.

Student art work featured in book

A drawing of a hand holding a quill, designed by Suzy Meredith, soph., was the cover of the 1981 Echo Chamber.

During the year, poems, creative writings, and stories were collected. The members read the stories and chose what would go into the book. By early February, these works were sent to Vo-Tech to be typed. Later, after the copy was returned, the members pasted up the pages of the book and sent them to Vo-Tech to be printed. Throughout the year, students had the option to work on the book at their convenience.

Echo Chamber held a meeting at the beginning of the year. From then on, the members met only at the end of January to complete the book.

Latin Club added to student activities

Junior Classical League, or Latin Club, was formed this year in order to promote Latin and the classics. In addition, it provided an opportunity for students to keep up on Latin if their schedules excluded it.

Seventeen members joined the new club under the sponsorship of Latin instructor Dee Schwinn.

The club met once a month during activity period, and held one evening meeting each nine weeks.

They chose the motto, "Efficimus scientiam Latina," or "We bring about knowledge through Latin." A flag, designed by Latin Club members, also was chosen to be displayed at club meetings.

The Latin Club is part of a national organization.

Staff competes at regionals; Eight travel to state contest

Placing eight people in the 5-A regional KSPA Contest highlighted the year for the Newspaper staff. Staff members placed in every event entered, and Kirk Hinshaw placed in two events. Regional winners then went to the state contest at Kansas University.

For the first time, the newspaper staff put out a special election issue. On November 4, several students, the advisor and the typesetter all met at the vocational-technical school. "We came out about 9 o'clock and students listened to local radio and watched national television in order to gather the news for their stories," said Advisor Eileen Peoples. "Some students went down to the courthouse to interview local politicians." The paper was finished by 4 a.m. During second hour, all those who worked on the special issue went out for breakfast at Travelodge.

As another special project, four sportswriters designed the program for the 5-A regional wrestling tournament. Student teacher Mark Manning helped with the program.

Newspaper's main goal was to expand advertising. "The ads looked better," said Mrs. Peoples, "but I'd like to see bigger ads."

Several controversial stories were published, including in-depth stories on teen suicide, abortion, and school drop-outs. "The in-depth stories, I felt, were of exceptional quality," said Mrs. Peoples.

Six staff members attended summer camps at Kansas University. Jeff Cravens, Forrest Creager, and Paula Facklam attended two-week camps, and Wilma Mason, Kirk Hinshaw, and Julie Greischar attended one-week camps.

Eleven eligible for state comp. at KU

For the first time, Yearbook staff members took one or two places in every category offered at the 5-A Regional KSPA Contest at Manhattan.

"I was expecting them to do well," said Advisor Eileen Peoples, "but I never dreamed they'd do so well!"

Members eligible for the state contest March 28 were Sherry Bishop, Julie Decker, Helayne Dorsey, Lisa Hall, Staci Lee, Larry McAlister, Sean Milton, Jeff Stead and Brenda Vaughn.

Gag gifts were exchanged during a Yearbook Christmas party December 15. Among the gifts were crazy foam, plastic watches and a fake diamond ring.

The Yearbook staff traveled to Ottawa September 3 for a yearbook workshop. Several other schools were there, and representatives from Josten's American Yearbook Company explained different techniques and styles for compiling a yearbook.

Only two members from last year's staff returned, Lisa Hall and Julie Decker. Eleven new members were added.

The staff toured Josten's American Yearbook Company January 30. The students toured the plant to see how yearbooks were put together. Afterwards they went to lunch and visited White Lakes Mall.

Members spent many of the in-service days at school putting their pages together to meet the deadline. Students frequently arrived at school early and stayed late, sometimes putting in as much as eight or nine hours a day at school.

Participation grows stronger with wild Pep Days get-ups

Here's to Emporia High School, la, la, la, la, la, la.... This was music in students' ears as they paraded the halls in wild and crazy Pep-Days get-ups.

Students dressed as everything from African cannibals to Sesame Street's Bert and Ernie on Spook 'em Day, October 30. On Jersey Day, September 13, some wore everything from football jerseys to rock-n-roll concert jerseys. On Twin Day, October 10, students dressed like a friend; on Hat Day, September 12, some really outrageous hats were worn, and on 50's Day, students dressed like their teachers used to.

"Participation was really good this year," said Janice Butts, Spartan Club President. "After the showing during basketball season last year, everyone has been really eager to get involved in the excitement. I have also seen more guys participating in both Pep-Days and the cheering at the games than ever before," added Janice.

There was one small controversy concerning Nursery School Day. Some administrators, teachers and students felt that Nursery School Day was more of a distraction than a spirit-raiser. "I tried to discourage Nursery School Day because I have had some complaints from teachers, but the Board members wanted to go ahead with it," said Janice.

Varsity nominated for excellence award

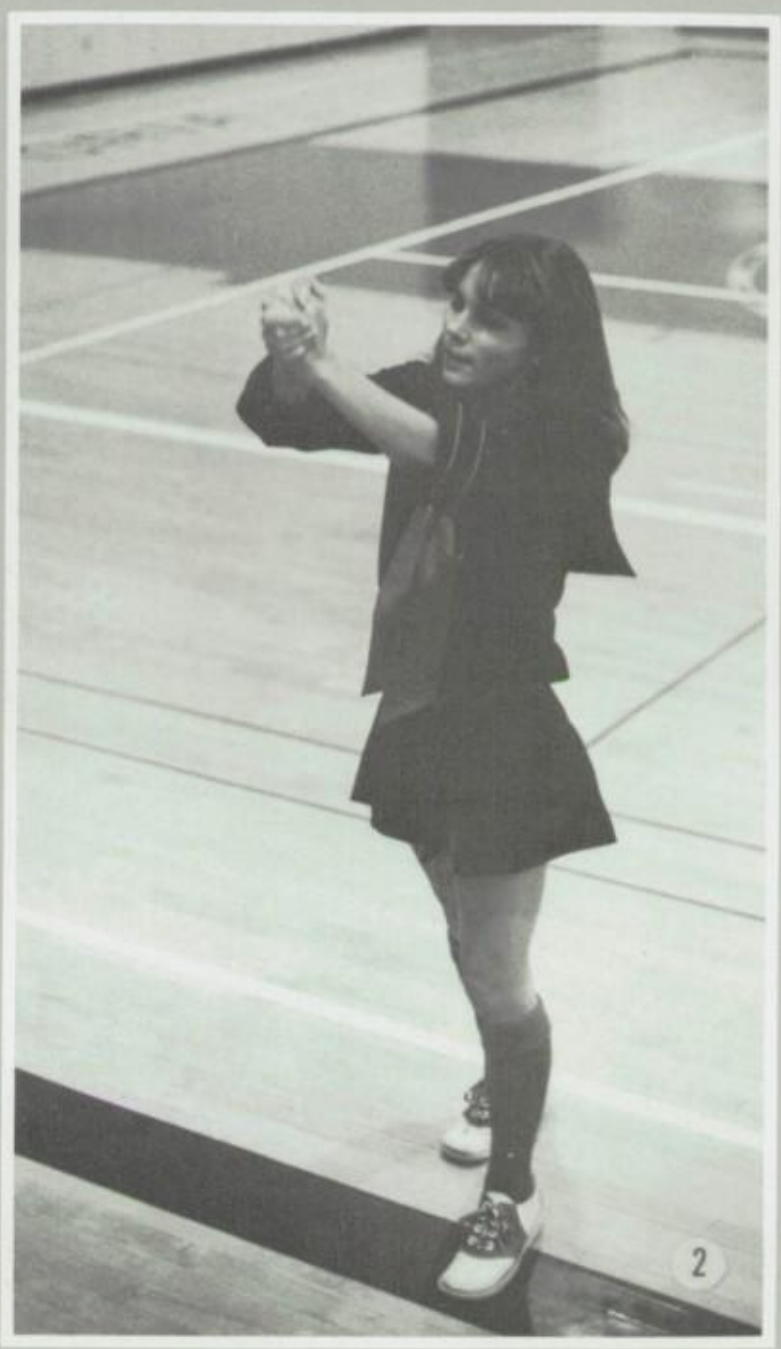
"Two bits, four bits, six bits, a dollar... all for the Spartans stand up and holler." And they do, all led by the varsity cheerleaders.

The varsity squad was one of only four squads nominated for the "award of excellence" when they attended cheerleader camp this summer at Baker University outside of Lawrence. Also, on their first day there, they won the spirit stick; during all three days they were awarded blue ribbons.

"Our main objective this year was to get more students involved," stated Kathy Parks, sr., who has been a high school cheerleader for four years.

During pep assemblies, the cheerleaders presented skits. They came up with the idea for the male cheerleaders. "It was just about the best turnout we have ever had," said Kathy. They also devised the Academy Awards skit, in which they nominated teachers and students for categories such as cutest legs and best body.

Co-Captain Shana Bollinger, who has been a cheerleader for four years, said that this squad really wanted to learn and come across to the crowd. "This year we've had one of the best squads in a long time," said Shana. "The girls have talent; all we need is the enthusiasm."



JV attends camp at Missouri Valley

During the summer, the junior varsity cheerleaders attended summer camp at Missouri Valley College in Marshall, Missouri. On their third day there, they were presented with the spirit stick, and throughout the three-day camp they received two superior ribbons and three excellent ribbons.

Their money-making projects included planning a bake sale, selling candy bars, and selling red and black hats along with the varsity cheerleaders.

"We learned how to get along as a squad," said Lisa Mitchell, jr., "and we became very close."

Frosh cheerleaders enjoy football most

The freshman cheerleaders had one week to practice before their first game. Carrie Goble, captain, said, "We were glad it was out-of-town because we really didn't know what we were doing." She went on to say, "Two varsity cheerleaders drove up and helped us out."

They liked football best because, according to sponsor Donnia Hinrichs, "It was outside during the nice weather."

Their best cheer was one made up by Diane Burd called "Watch Out."

As for their first pep assembly, Carrie said, "We were really nervous and forgot the cheer. When we got into our mount someone on the bottom slipped, causing the top person to fall, and then everybody started laughing."

They sold hats and mittens with the varsity and junior varsity as a money-making project.

Drill team earns one rating, practices long, hard hours

Drill Team received a one rating for the first time at the Neewollah Contest on November 1. "We couldn't have done it without the help of Mr. Robert Aman," said Angela Buck, co-captain.

Time and dedication were integral parts of being on the drill team. "The girls worked hard during the summer learning commands and marching maneuvers," said Janice Roth, captain.

During the summer, Drill Team served dinner at many college banquets and worked at the dunking booth at the fair. "We worked hard this past summer raising over a thousand dollars for our new uniforms," said Angela.

The drill team performed at ESU's and KU's Band Days, in parades, at home football games, in a playoff game, and at a special Marching Band Concert. They also performed at three home basketball games, at the 5A State Tournament, and for the first time at a wrestling meet.

Spartans win last five games to gain state playoff berth

Earning a 5A State playoff berth with a 6-3 record highlighted the season for the Spartan football team. Although they started slowly by winning only one of their first four games, they finished strong, winning the last five games in the regular season and taking second place in the Centennial League.

In the first round of the State playoffs, the Spartans led the Fort Scott Tigers 10-0 before giving up twenty points in the second half and losing, 20-10. Fort Scott went on to place second in State.

"I was pleased with the way the kids were able to come back after starting out 1-3," said Head Coach Dave Hugg. "We kept getting better and better the last five games."

Junior quarterback and safety Shawn Smith added, "We had a good year, and we were really able to put everything together toward the end of the season."

Several Spartans earned post-season honors, with senior fullback Lonie Brock and senior defensive lineman Art Beardsley gaining both first team 5A All-State and first team Centennial League. Other first team League choices for Emporia were junior safety Tyrone Bolden, senior offensive lineman Jeff Coburn, junior offensive lineman Tim Dorsey, and senior center Ron Schlotterbeck.

Players making the second team were junior safety Shawn Smith, junior defensive end Eric Green, and senior linebacker Arnold Graham.

Emporia 12, Salina Central 13

Costly Emporia mistakes and a balanced Salina Central offensive attack proved to be the downfall for the Spartans in their season opener. Although the Spartans had 188 total yards on the ground, they were able to score touchdowns only twice and failed to convert the point after either time. Another touchdown run by Bernie Gardenhire was called back to the Mustangs' 8-yard line because of an official's "inadvertent whistle," and the Spartans were then unable to put the ball in the end zone. Salina Central's winning score came with only thirteen seconds left on a touchdown pass that was tipped twice by Emporia defenders before Central caught it to beat the Spartans.

Emporia 25, Ottawa 0

Taking advantage of Ottawa mistakes and turnovers, Emporia built up a large early lead, and then just kept the Cyclones from scoring. Bernie Gardenhire rushed for two touchdowns, and Jerry Heidebrecht ran 55 yards for a score and threw a 5-yard pass to Mike Beran for another. The real catalyst of the victory, however, was the Spartan defense. Emporia forced two turnovers early in the game to keep the ball in the hands of the offense.

Emporia 0, Seaman 13

Although the Spartan defense put out an outstanding effort and held the Seaman offense scoreless, defensive play alone was not enough. The Viking defense scored twice on Emporia turnovers to get all the points they needed. Emporia had almost 200 yards in offense to Seaman's 69, but could not seem to move the ball when they got close to Seaman's goal line. The first Seaman score came early in the second quarter as a Seaman defensive back picked up an Emporia fumble deep in the Vikings' territory and raced untouched for a touchdown.

Emporia 7, Shawnee Heights 12

Using four personal foul penalties against Emporia's defense, Shawnee Heights marched ninety yards with less than 4 minutes to play for a touchdown and a 12-7 victory. Donny Gutierrez had 106 yards rushing and Lonie Brock had 80, but aside from those two backs, Emporia managed only 21 other offensive yards. The Spartans' only touchdown came after a 41-yard drive. It ended with Brock scoring from 19 yards out. Shawnee Heights' first touchdown was practically given to them when Emporia fumbled a punt on their own 14-yard line. The Thunderbirds scored in two plays.

Emporia 14, Buhler 6

Two Kelly Cox interceptions, one for a 23-yard touchdown, helped the Spartans to a 14-6 win over Buhler. The Emporia defense rose to the occasion as they kept Buhler from scoring again after the Crusaders gained an early lead on their first possession. The Spartans failed to get a first down the first three times they had the ball, but after Cox's touchdown shifted the momentum, they were able to get almost 200 yards in offense, all on the ground. After Emporia's second touchdown on a long drive, the Crusaders had the ball three times in Spartan territory but were unable to come away with more points.

Emporia 23, Leavenworth 7

A solid all-around effort by the Spartans enabled them to come back from an early 7-0 deficit and post a 23-7 victory over the Pioneers. Tyrone Bolden went 83 yards on a kickoff return to tie the score at 7, and from then on the game belonged to Emporia. Leavenworth drives were stopped on four interceptions, and a 27-yard run by Bernie Gardenhire on the Spartans' first possession of the second half put Emporia ahead for good. Kelly Ratcliff kicked a 37-yard field goal and Donny Gutierrez scored on a 6-yard run to account for the rest of the Spartans' points.

Emporia 22, Washburn Rural 7

Emporia finally pulled their season record over .500 as they dumped the Washburn Rural Junior Blues with a strong second-half effort. The Junior Blues scored first late in the first quarter on a 5-yard run, but those were to be the only points they could get the entire game. After failing to score the first half, Emporia finally burst out with touchdowns the first three times they had the ball in the second half. Donny Gutierrez scored on two short runs, and Shawn Smith passed to Eric Green for a 12-yard touchdown. The Spartan defense also stiffened, allowing just 2 first downs and minus 2 yards rushing in the second half.

Emporia 34, Hayden 14

A devastating ground game and a stingy pass defense helped the Spartans as they crushed Hayden. Lonie Brock had 4 touchdowns and 276 of Emporia's 350 rushing yards. The Spartans' other touchdown finished off a long drive with a 6-yard TD run. The Wildcats' only scores came after a long kickoff return and late in the game on a 34-yard drive. Tyrone Bolden paced the Emporia secondary with two interceptions. Shawn Smith and Marty Lippert each had one as the Spartans allowed the Hayden quarterback to complete only 2 of 8 passes.

Emporia 37, Highland Park 0

Setting the tone for the game on the first play from scrimmage, Bernie Gardenhire scored untouched from 27 yards out to give Emporia a 7-0 lead that it could only increase. A Lonie Brock touchdown and a Kelly Ratcliff field goal put the Spartans up 17-0 at the half as Emporia continued to capitalize on the Scotties' mistakes and inability to move the ball. After Tyrone Bolden opened the second half with a touchdown kickoff return of 93 yards, Emporia finished the scoring with a 31-yard Shawn Smith to Joe Augustyn touchdown pass and a 6-yard run by Gardenhire.

Emporia 10, Fort Scott 20

Emporia's season ended as the Fort Scott Tigers rebounded from a 10-0 half time deficit to take a 20-10 victory. The Spartans, while keeping the Tigers scoreless in the first half, opened the scoring with a touchdown pass of 16 yards from Shawn Smith to Joe Augustyn and later in the first half added a 30-yard Kelly Ratcliff field goal. But in the second half Emporia was unable to hold Fort Scott back as the Tigers scored all three times they had the ball. The first two touchdowns came on long drives. The third was set up when Emporia failed to gain a first down and gave the ball to Fort Scott at the Spartans' 25-yard line late in the game.

Junior varsity attitude good; Team loses close ballgames

Even though the junior varsity football team finished the season with no wins in six games, their record really didn't reflect the team's attitude, according to Coach Clay Parenti.

"The team never gave up in any of the games and played just about every team to within a touchdown," he said.

"There were a lot of factors that hurt us throughout the year," said Coach Parenti. "One thing was that we only had about fifteen players, and most guys had to play both offense and defense. That can get pretty tiring. Also, we never got to practice as a unit, which is just something you have to put up with at the junior varsity level."

Junior Jeff Stead added, "We probably could have won some games if some of the players wouldn't have had to go both ways. The team just got worn out."

"We played just about everybody tough," Junior Dan Williams ended. "The breaks just didn't seem to go our way."

Improved performance brings sophomores' winning record

Finishing the year with five wins against only two losses, the sophomore team ended a very successful season. The team lost only to Lawrence and Shawnee Heights. They defeated Council Grove, Seaman, Manhattan, Hayden and Newton.

"We had a good year," said Joe Morris, soph., "and we improved a lot over last year." Joe remarked that one of the squad's best games was against Hayden, "because even though Hayden scored on the first play, we were able to come back and win."

"The strong points of our team," said Chris Keith, soph., "were the linebackers and offensive line."

Coach Tony Brown agreed, citing linemen Gus Sosa, Steve Howland, and Randy Smith and linebacker Eric Knight for their play.

Good defense keys great frosh season

The freshman football team completed an outstanding year. After their lone defeat to Junction City in the second game, the team closed out the season with five straight victories to end up with a 6-1 record.

Coach Ron Darmon commented that most of the games were pretty much the same — defensive struggles. "Our last game against Logan was indicative of how tough our defense was. We only gave up three yards rushing the whole game."

Todd Jones, fr., added, "The best part of our team was the defensive line. It kind of held the whole team together."

Varsity volleyball captures second place at Sub-State

Teamwork, hustle on defense, and good blocking helped the volleyball team capture second place at sub-state November 1.

They won first in both the Wichita Invitational and the Highland Park Invitational. In season play they were undefeated, and they won second in the Centennial League Tournament.

According to first-year coach Willie Smiley, the girls really worked as a team. "It's hard to single out one player when it's a team effort," said Coach Smiley. Coach Smiley also felt the girls had an excellent attitude. "They played as a team," she said. "They really gave their all at sub-state."

"I enjoyed playing on the team this year," said Debbie SanRomani, jr. "It was a lot of fun." Another player, Junior Tina Stuaffer, said, "I think that this year we should have gone to state, but we didn't because we fell apart in sub-state." She added, "I liked this year because the coaching was good, and everyone got along well."

Next year Coach Smiley would like to incorporate the one-set into the offense and try 6-2 offense. One other thing Coach Smiley wants to work for is more school spirit for the team.

"I really enjoyed coaching this year," concluded Coach Smiley. "I had a good group of girls and had lots of fun with them."

Jr. varsity serving shows improvement

According to first-year coach Janet Blaufuss, serving was one of the biggest improvements for the junior varsity volleyball team.

"There was really good serving this year," said Coach Blaufuss. The team had eight wins and four losses.

The most exciting games for the team were those against Leavenworth and Hayden. They had to play all three games, but they eventually won.

Although many players on the team improved, Coach Blaufuss felt Danna Harrington was most improved.

"I think they did well working in a group," said Coach Blaufuss. "It was a total team effort."

Freshman volleyball captures best record

In the opinion of Coach Norma Hodges, the freshman volleyball team did, "Very well."

If A team and B team's win/loss records were combined, it would be the best record the freshman volleyball team has ever had. The A team had three wins with two losses; the B team had five wins and no losses.

Everyone played well, but Coach Hodges felt that Mauree Fisher was best. "Mauree would work the net well on frontline, and on backline she had control on the bump."

One of their more exciting games was against Manhattan. "We were way behind, and we won!" stated Coach Hodges.

Coach Hodges' assistant coach helped her a great deal. "I received a lot of help from Assistant Coach Nancy Davidson," she explained.

"They were a very unique group of girls," concluded Coach Hodges. "I've never had any like these before."

Depth is strong point for women's tennis

Depth was a strong point for the women's tennis team. According to Coach Ruth Smith, there were "a lot of good tennis players."

The team sent two juniors, Nita Wineinger and Libby Hollembeak, to state. "I think this was a good year," said Libby. "I enjoyed going to state since I've never been before." She went on to say, "I'm looking forward to next year."

"I had a great time," added Nita. "We had a really challenging season."

The team captured three firsts, at the Seaman and Wamego Invitationals and the Triangular Meet, which was held here. They also placed third at the Salina Central Meet.

The team's most exciting trips were Wamego and Seaman. "We won and had trophies to bring home," said Coach Smith.

Pam Longbine and Michele Matile were outstanding players. "We had a good year plus a great time," said Pam.

"Even though we're losing Pam, we hope to have just as good a team next year," said Michele.

"I think they did really well," concluded Coach Smith. She added, "I'm looking for improvement next year."

Lisa Bradley places 5th in women's golf

"The team played close to as well as it could have," said women's golf coach Larry Eudaley. "They worked hard and put out a good effort."

For the first time in six years, only one girl, Senior Lisa Bradley, went to state. In the past years, the entire team had gone. "We had a young team, but did really well for the amount of experience we had," said Bradley, who took fifth in state.

"In my opinion, Bradley is second or third best in the state," said Coach Eudaley.

The most exciting tournament for the girls was in Council Grove. "They all got medals," explained Coach Eudaley.

"I didn't have as good a year as I had hoped for, but I had a fun time," said Senior Janice Roth.

Leadership guides cross country men

Junior Jon Pool and seniors Cliff Greenlief and Brenton Bennett paced the men's cross country team throughout a good season.

The Spartans took fourth at the Centennial League meet; Pool qualified for the state meet and finished thirty-fifth.

"I was pleased with the way the year went," said Coach Pat Sands. "We had many strong runners, and our seniors were good leaders."

The highlight of the season, according to Coach Sands, was the September 26 meet at Seaman. "About everybody ran a really good race there," Sands remarked.

Brenton Bennett added, "The year went pretty well, but I feel we should have qualified for state as a team."

League title taken by women runners

The women's cross country team won the Centennial League meet and took third at the state meet to finish out an excellent season. The Spartans were consistently strong throughout the year.

Senior Heather Houchin was the team's most outstanding member, finishing near the top in every meet and placing seventh at state.

"Heather was a real tough runner," noted Coach Pat Sands. "A lot of our success throughout the year was due to her."

One thing that really hurt the team was Heidi Moreland's arm injury. "Heidi finished second in league the year before," said Coach Sands. "So her inability to run for most of this season had to have an effect on us. For the most part, though, it was a great year."

Lack of height, experience gives varsity 2-18 record

A lack of size and experience plagued the men's varsity basketball team throughout the season. The men won only two of their twenty games all year long; both of the victories came against Ottawa.

"We had no size," Coach Bill Linhart said. "A big man, 6'5" or over, might have been able to turn things around."

Team member Don Carter, jr., agreed. "We didn't have the height the other teams had. They were able to dominate us on the boards." The Spartans' tallest player was 6'3" Senior Kelly Ratcliff.

Inexperience also contributed to the Spartans' problems. "We were a young team," said James Stone, sr. "There were only a couple of players with any varsity experience."

Although the Spartans failed to win any league games, Stone was named to the All-Centennial League first team. "It was an honor," he commented. "It's nice to know the other coaches respect your ability."

The varsity squad closed out the season with a first-round loss in the sub-state tournament played at Emporia. They were defeated by Paola in a close game, 63-61.

Good team spirit and morale throughout the year, however, pleased Coach Linhart. "This team had a good attitude and worked hard," he said. "I enjoyed the year."

J.V. wins 2 games; Improvement shown

After winning its opening contest, with Ottawa on December 5, the men's junior varsity basketball team won only one of its remaining fifteen games to finish at 2-14.

The only other win came against Seaman on January 13. The team, however, did show some improvement, according to Coach Ron Darmon. "We improved our basic basketball skills and gained some valuable game experience," said Darmon.

The main weakness of the team, according to Coach Darmon, was the height of the squad. "We really had no size," he said.

"Even though we didn't win many games, we improved as the year progressed," ended Junior Aneel Taj. "It was kind of a learning year."

Hustle helps frosh to winning record

Opening with five straight home victories, the freshman basketball team had a good year and finished with a season record of 7-5. All five of the team's losses came in out-of-town games.

A lack of height hampered the Spartans, but according to Coach Bob Clements, the team was pretty much able to overcome that problem. "We acknowledged our lack of height," said Clements, "and we made up for it with hustle and determination."

The B-team finished the year with a 6-2 record as it lost twice to Junction City. Wins for the B-team came against Fort Riley, Ottawa, and El Dorado.

Women take first in League, disappointing fourth at State

For the first time since 1975, the women's varsity basketball team captured the Centennial League title. According to Coach Lloyd Steele, the team "ran away with the League."

Dana Ginavan, sr., said, "I'm really excited about being the first Centennial League champs since 1975."

Four team members, Sandy Dennison, Tammy Nelson, Marlina Lopez, and Dana Ginavan were chosen for the Lyon County All-Stars.

Dennison also made the All Centennial League and Nelson made the Honorable Mention for Centennial League. Junior Tina Stauffer made the Most Valuable Player for Centennial League. She was on both the Glacier's Edge Tournament team and State Tournament team. "It was a really great honor; it meant a lot to me," said Tina.

At state the team took a disappointing fourth place. Although they won their first game with Independence, they lost to both Bishop Miege and Newton.

The team ended the season with a 21-3 record.

"I think the team had a tremendous amount of talent, depth, and quickness," concluded Coach Steele.

J.V. captures first

Placing first in the league, the women's junior varsity basketball team ended the season recording a 14-2 record.

"I am very proud of the team for this reason," said Coach David Hodges. "Four games played by the team were very exciting," said Hodges. These games were against Seaman, Leavenworth, Washburn Rural and Manhattan. "In each of these games, the team was behind by at least 8 points," said Hodges. "They had tremendous comeback, considering the surrounding environment, and won each of these games."

"The team improved greatly in its ability to control the ball," said Coach Hodges. "I believe cutting down on the number of turnovers was our biggest improvement."

"As the season went on," said Coach Hodges, "shooting ability increased, thus helping out the number of wins gained by the team."

The varsity team graduated six seniors at the end of the year. "I feel that we have enough girls to fill in the gap left behind by the varsity team," said Coach Hodges.

"The girls came to practice wanting to learn," said Hodges. "They never felt they grew good enough they didn't need to learn."

Frosh suffer losses

A disappointing 1-10 record ended the season for the women's freshman basketball team.

"The girls improved in basic skills such as shooting, passing and dribbling," said Coach Jim Knott.

The winning game was against Ottawa. "The girls seemed to be able to score enough points on offense to win the games. The main problem was defense," said Coach Knott. "We just couldn't keep the other team from scoring more points and winning."

The team had two girls named as high scorers. They were Connie Long and Stephanie Spellman.

Connie will be moving to a new school over the summer. "I'm going to keep working and try to go on and play varsity basketball," said Connie.

The team tried something new this year. They didn't have one permanent captain. The team felt this was good because it gave everyone a chance to be a leader.

"Several of the girls played for the first time this year. This caused them to be behind other girls their age," said Knott. "However, the girls kept a good attitude during the season."

"Several of the girls improved enough to go in and play varsity or junior varsity," said Knott. "Everyone got experience and improved; we only hope to improve more in the years to come."

Gymnastics team successful; Members acquire experience

Led by Junior Don Carter and Senior Charlie LeClair, the men's gymnastics team completed one of their best seasons ever. They ended the year with a close second place finish at the Centennial League meet and a fourth place at regionals. Carter won two individual titles at both the league meet and regionals, and LeClair had one in each.

"It was a pretty successful year," said Coach Bob Wilburn. "We were short in numbers, but the people we had were quality gymnasts."

Although this team was successful, next year's ought to be even better, according to Coach Wilburn. "We did well this year even though we lacked experience. Next year most of the guys are coming back and with a year's experience should be better gymnasts."

"This was the best year we've had since I've been here," said LeClair, "and next year should be even more successful."

Team goes to state, breaks two records

Placing as the highest 5A school at state was the highlight of the year for the men's swimming team. Senior Marc Campbell placed second in the 100-yard butterfly and third in the 100-yard breast stroke, setting a new school record of 1:49.9. The 200-yard medley team, consisting of Mitch Faddis, Jon Pool, Dan Nichols, and Marc Campbell, placed second. They too set a new school record of 1:44.5. Wade Fothergill, sophomore, and Freshman Eric Pool also competed at state.

"The team's had a good year," said Co-Captain Marc Campbell. "In the future, I hope they do better," said Marc. "I think beating all the other 5A schools showed we have a lot of talent."

"I think we had an exceptional year for the number of people we had," said Co-Captain Mitch Faddis. "I hope that our success will bring more people out for the team next year, because what they'll really need is depth; that's what we needed this year," he added.

According to Coach Terry Westbrook, state's always the most exciting meet. "That's what we swim all year for - state," he said.

The team ended the season with seven wins and four losses.

(1) Jon Pool, jr., does a backstart at a meet on December 12, which was held here. (2) Senior Marc Campbell receives an award at the state meet on February 20 and 21. Swimmers building for future team

"Obviously, since there are so many freshmen, this is a building year," said swimming coach Terry Westbrook. "We are building and plan to have a stronger team a few years from now."

Only five girls returned from last year. They are seniors Jan Bohm and Janice Butts, and sophomores Megan Hurt, Stephani Calhoun, and Heidi Hess.

In order to go to state, a swimmer must have a qualifying time. "I think Stephani Calhoun might have a chance at state," said Westbrook. "She's pretty fast and might be fast enough."

"I think if I practice hard, I could have a chance at the 50 or 100 freestyle," said Stephani. "I would really like to qualify and plan to work hard toward it."

"We may not be as fast as years before, but we're still working just as hard," said Janice Butts. "Our 400 free relay team [Megan Hurt, Jan Bohm, Stephani Calhoun and Janice Butts] might have a good chance at state. We want to be ready for that," concluded Janice.

At their first meet March 9, the team took second place in the 200 freestyle relay and fourth in the 400 freestyle and special relay.

Wrestlers win third at state; Noce takes championship

Although hampered by injuries to key people throughout the year, the varsity wrestling team placed third at the 5A state tournament in Newton.

"We should have won state," said Senior Bob Duncan. "But injuries were really a problem this year."

Seniors Benji Coria and Donny Gutierrez were among the injury victims. Coria, although he qualified, was unable to attend state because of an arm injury.

Cliff Noce, jr., was the only Spartan to take a state championship even though Emporia placed four in the finals. It was Noce's second championship in two years. Senior Joel Rios, Sophomore Jim Hahn, and Senior Donny Gutierrez were state runners-up for the Spartans.

"We were disappointed with third at state, but we're looking forward to next year," Coach Pat Sands commented. "Our freshman and junior varsity squads both had excellent seasons, so we should have good personnel next season."

First year coach helps J.V. go 7-1

Junior Varsity Coach Paul Dorathy, in his first year of coaching, led the B-team to a 7-1 dual record and one tournament victory.

"Coach Dorathy did a good job for his first year," said Senior Rick Torres.

After losing their opening match against Salina South by one point, the team came back with dual wins against Hayden, Seaman, and Leavenworth and took the Coffeyville and Shawnee Mission South double duals. They also won the eight team Topeka West J.V. Tournament.

"We wrestled pretty well," said P. J. Mendoza, jr. "This team ought to be able to move a lot of people up to the varsity level next year."

Freshmen go 5-1, take Hayden Invit.

After going undefeated through three duals and two tournaments, the freshman wrestling team took third in the El Dorado Invitational to finish the season. They placed behind McPherson and Goddard.

The freshmen opened the season with a first place finish at the Junction City triple dual. They next won the Hayden Invitational, finishing top in an eight-team field. Three straight dual victories against El Dorado and Junction City followed before the third place finish at El Dorado.

"Our team had a lot of excellent wrestlers," commented Freshman Jim Hill. "We had a good all-around team."

Girls! Girls! Girls! For sixteen years, Sue McKinney has been leading Girl Scouts.

Ms. McKinney teaches the girls camping, backpacking and outdoor games. Although she is not directly involved with the girls now, she feels scouting is important. "It teaches the girls leadership along with other skills that will help the girls either now or later in life," she explained.

Ms. McKinney remains active with the Girl Scouts by training leaders and doing short term "projects" with groups that request them.

"I was a Girl Scout for eleven years myself." She went on to say, "I don't feel that there have been very many changes in scouting. The girls still like to have fun, just like they did when I was a scout."

"The main reason I do it is to have fun," said Ms. McKinney. "It also puts me in contact with younger children and their parents."

"Aside from some rather strange meals, short nights and being dumped out of my sleeping bag occasionally, there haven't been any major disasters."

Harvey Folye has been roofing and painting houses for five or six years. "I do it to make money," he said. When asked if he would go into it full time, he replied, "I have considered it, but I don't know."

"There are advantages in the job compared to teaching," said Mr. Foyle, "like making more money and being your own boss." However, he also pointed out disadvantages. "You are constantly in danger of falling off the roof or being burnt by shingles heated by the sun."

When asked how he gets his jobs, Mr. Foyle replied, "People know from experience that I do a good job, so they return to me for business and recommend me to other people."

Science:

John Harclerode has been taking pictures of wildlife and nature for three years. "I like being able to take pictures and sharing them with others," he said.

According to Mr. Harclerode, photography is a very expensive hobby. "I have put about $2,000 into my equipment," he said. He also sells his pictures, and has been doing this for about a year.

Mr. Harclerode uses a lot of his pictures for his classes. "Whenever I don't have a specimen, I usually have a picture I can use."

Mr. Harclerode has also considered turning to professional photography. "I'm not really sure," he concluded.

Charles Peoples has always wanted to sell real estate. "I like to see different houses and help people find the right house," he said.

Mr. Peoples saw an advertisement in the paper this past summer for a real estate agent. He looked into it, and decided to try it.

"I had to study a text and then take a one-day cram course," he explained. Mr. Peoples finally received his license on August 25.

Will he quit teaching to sell real estate? "I haven't made up my mind," he said, "even though the pay for selling real estate is better than what I am getting now."

One of Glenna Harrison's students made her a special Halloween cake.

The first year Donnia Hinrichs taught, her students gave her a bouquet of silk flowers.

Juniors Kelly Cox, Hud Gibson, Phillip Mejia, and Doug Cunningham gave Pru Schmidt moral support for over a month after her son was killed.

A student sent Pam Swafford six baby red roses because her husband had not sent her any.

Physical Education:

One of the nicest things that ever happened to Bill Cinelli was when the student body voted him teacher of the year.

Some students made a special effort to talk to Dave Hugg about a class or season when it ended; their appreciation helped keep him in the teaching and coaching business.

Students decorated the offices of Linda Fox and Norma Hodges for their birthdays last year.

A highlight for Pat Sands was when the wrestlers took state.

Terry Westbrook received a plaque from his 1978 Senior Swimming members.

As the head of FBLA, Elizabeth Voorhees has made many improvements for the club. Mrs. Voorhees has been the head of FBLA for 15 years. "Since I became the head of FBLA, I have tried to expand the club," she said.

Mrs. Voorhees' efforts have paid off. Since she became the head of the club, she has increased communications between members and the executive board. The number of members has also risen. "This year we had the second highest membership in the state, but the number of members fluctuates every year," she said.

Mrs. Voorhees tries to get students involved in the FBLA, but she leaves the decisions to the students themselves. "I have encouraged students to run for state office, but the students usually come to me and say that they want to run for a state office," she said. By encouraging students, Mrs. Voorhees hopes that they will learn leadership, vocational and personal skills.

Music:

On April 1st, a class wrote Don Grant an "April Fool" letter, saying, "Since we usually give you a hard time, we thought we would write you a letter and let you know how much we appreciate you as a teacher." (Senior Class Sponsor, Chorale Sponsor, Music Department Head)

Marching Band found out about David Hodges' birthday and surprised him with a cake. He also got a very special card from the seniors. (Band Sponsor)

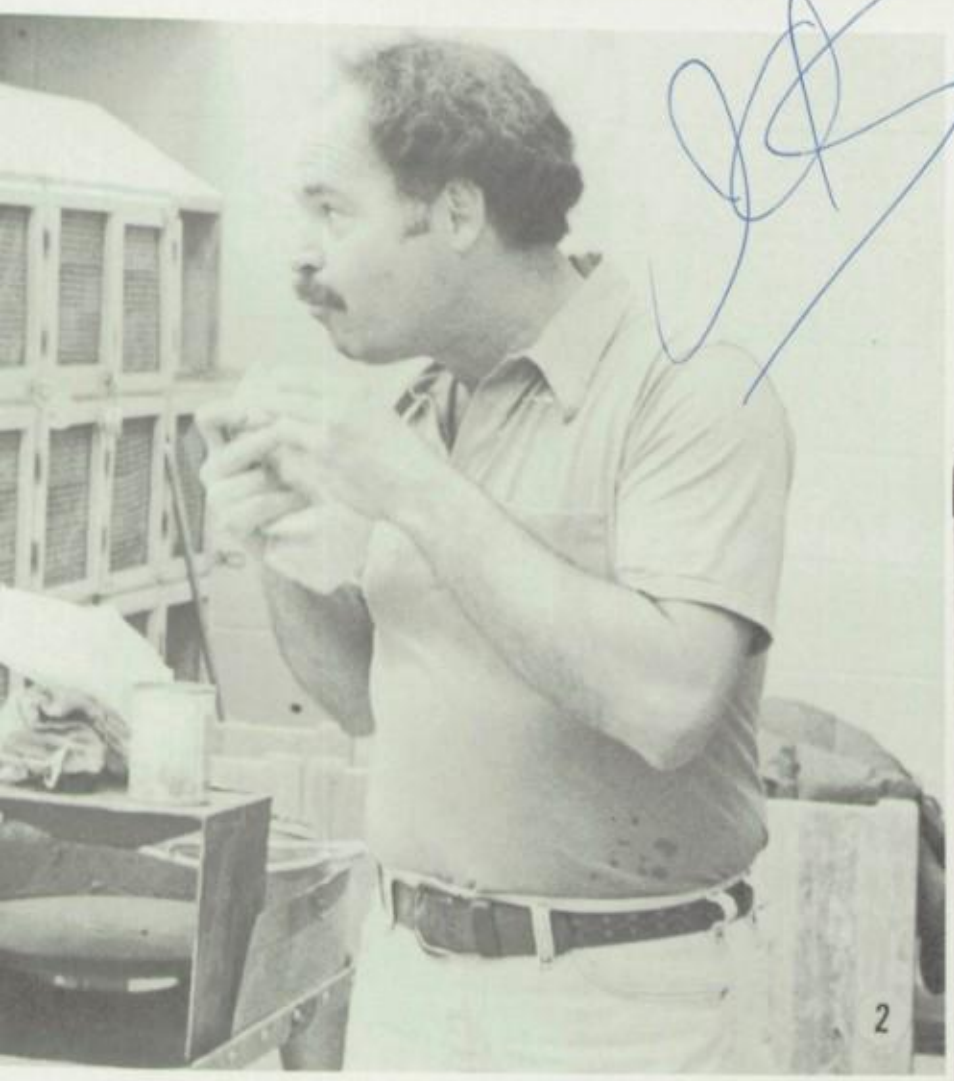
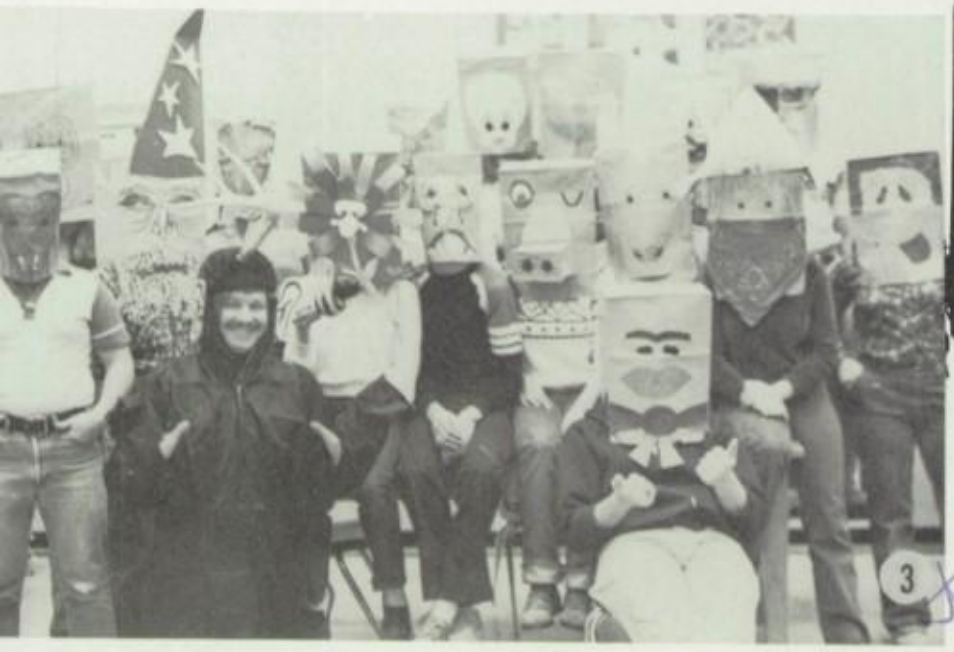
Art:

Debra Maxwell's most rewarding experience has been to see students with "troubles" in their lives change for the better.

Joe Stellwagon enjoyed having Kelly, Wifey, Shana and Wonder Woman at noon.

Jerry Troxell was coming up the walk with a projector in one hand and a dozen books in the other. A girl saw him coming and held the door. (He was almost halfway through before she slammed it on his foot.) (Art Department Head, Black Market Club Sponsor)





(1) ART: Joe Stellwagon, Jerry Troxell and Debra Maxwell. (2) Art teacher Joe Stellwagon finishes a snack in the art room. (3) Art teachers and students show their creativity by making special masks just to have their pictures taken.

Art teacher Debra Maxwell has been making jewelry for eight or nine years.

Mrs. Maxwell's college major was sculpturing. However, she took up jewelry making as an extra interest. In the past, she has made jewelry to sell. "The best selling items have been earrings and rings," she said. "I have sold mostly things to wear." Since becoming a teacher, most of the jewelry she has made has been for herself, as gifts and as classroom examples.

Most of the items she makes take around two months to complete. "The longest I have ever worked on one project was nine months," she added.

Mrs. Maxwell teaches two art classes. One is a basic jewelry class in which students make certain pieces of jewelry and learn the basics of jewelry making. The other is called Projects. In this class, students choose the pieces they want to make and work at their own speed.

"Art is something everyone can enjoy because it is a self-expression," said Mrs. Maxwell. "You must be very involved in order to stay with it."

Industrial Arts:

After his first year of teaching, a class presented Wayne Eikenberry with a $20 gift certificate and a card saying, "Thank you for a great year."

Paul Hastings has received coffee cake and cookies at Christmas time every year. (Industrial Arts Club Sponsor)

A former student returned to Emporia High to visit Richard McCoy. He commented he needed more knowledge in Navy tests about metal. This resulted in additional areas of curriculum to be added to our program. (Industrial Arts Department Head)

First year Industrial Arts teacher John Wyrick has lived in Emporia all of his life. He graduated from Emporia High School six years ago.

Have things changed much since he was a student here? "No," he said. "I had some of the same teachers that are still teaching now." One teacher he had was Industrial Arts teacher Richard McCoy. "I was a cage proctor for Mr. McCoy. One day he caught me doing something I shouldn't have been doing. He gave me a seventh hour which I never served."

Mr. Wyrick's parents were both educators, so being a teacher came naturally. He became interested in being a teacher while going to college at Emporia State.

"I enjoy being a teacher," he said. "It gets better all of the time. When a day goes well, it doesn't even seem like work."

Home Economics:

A student taught her mother a skill she learned from Eleanor Burenheide. The mother called to say "Thanks." (Home Economics Department Head)

Shirley Schoap received an "appreciation" graduation gift from a graduating senior. (Sophomore Class Sponsor)

Judy Tibbetts was called into the office in order for her classes to set up surprise baby showers for the birth of both of her daughters.

S.S.P.:

Barbara Holscher remembers when students helped her get up an icy hill last winter.

Counselors:

Several former students of Nancy Humes wrote her letters, remembering fun things they had done in English class and reminding her of what she had taught them.

Donny Alcorn helped Bob Lodle get his car started on a cold winter day.

A student who had originally dropped from school called Gene Otis from California to let him know he had graduated from high school. He later called from Hawaii and said he had graduated from college.

Librarian Arvina Lumley has changed or expanded the school library every year since she's been here. "I think it is important for the students to use the library, so it is my job to get them to like the library."

Part of this has been accomplished when she arranged for plants and cushioned chairs to be put in the library. When asked what change was made this year, she replied, "We put a television in the library so students can watch the news in the morning." She has also added a video tape system in the library which is available to teachers.

Mrs. Lumley also prepares carts of books and slide shows. "I want the teachers to know that they can use the library, too," said Mrs. Lumley. "Since we have made the library more comfortable, more and more students have come to use it," she concluded.

Secretaries:

Janice Barrons appreciated things the office proctors did for her.

A student pusned Gloria Brown's car out of a snowdrift last winter.

Students came into the office with candy to sell when Rose Ann Bura was on a diet.

Janet Weaver and Sandy Wells sent Donna Eudaley flowers and a note saying, "Have a good day."

Gaye Schumann and Kendra Ferrell gave Adele Knight cookies for Christmas.

The senior class officers sent Jan Redeker flowers for helping pay bills for their Worlds of Fun Day.

A student gave Sally Sanchez a ride to the veterinarian when her cat Jennifer was sick.

Librarians:

Tom Haskett had car trouble early this year, and a student gave him a ride home.

A student pulled Jeanette Hoy's car out of the snow one winter.

Arvina Lumley felt important when students said she had been a positive influence on their reading habits.

Cindy Peay appreciated students who were helpful and fun to work with.

Maintenance:

Home Economics students brought Jess Blocker Christmas cookies for his family.

Students have given Bob Burroughs cookies for the different holidays.

Bus Drivers:

Ted Fowler appreciates students who help him when he is on a new bus route.

Students have given Virginia Fowler directions to other students' houses when she was substituting for another bus driver.

Bud Morton has been driving a school bus for about six years. When he first drove a school bus, he had a regular bus route, but he then changed to just driving activity buses. "There is no repetition when driving activity buses," he said, "and a lot of things happen on the trips."

Mr. Morton is not sure what kind of group he likes taking the most. "Athletic trips seem to be the most exciting," he said, "but I enjoy them all because I like young people."

The farthest trip Mr. Morton has ever been on was to Oklahoma City, but he has stayed overnight in many cities. "Sometimes it is too late to start back, or the activity lasts more than one day," he said.

What does he do during the activities? "I like to go in and watch the activity," he said.

ACT VIII : STUDENT BODY

Seniors

Planning the Winter Sports Dance was the main goal of the senior class officers. Financing the dance was no problem according to President Kathy Parks. "We were lucky. We had a lot of money left from last year," said Kathy. "We started with about $545." The colors for the dance were lavender, pink, and blue, and the theme was "Sometimes a Fantasy."

While not that many money-raising projects were planned, the senior class entered the Homecoming Float Contest and the Christmas Window Contest. They took fourth in the Float Contest and placed first in the Christmas Window Contest. "We really put a lot of hours into that," Kathy said. "We worked every night for about two weeks."

Juniors

Magazine sales added $1,000 to their savings. Anne Wurtz and Doug Collins tied for first place in the contest with 24 subscriptions apiece. Anne, however, sold a special T.V. Guide subscription to give her a total of $261 raised to Doug's $247. Several students served for a banquet held at Emporia State University last March to add another $200. A bake sale was held downtown in conjunction with the Saturday Octoberfest. Proceeds from that were over $100.

Sophomores

Taking second in the Homecoming Float Contest highlighted the year for the sophomore class according to President Megan Hurt. "We were very happy about it," she said.

Making money for next year's Junior-Senior Prom provided the sophomores with a goal. Money-raising projects like the Homecoming Float and Christmas Window contests, along with a bake sale and selling T-shirts, helped bolster their savings. They also took second in the Mini-Hoop Contest. "We mainly concentrated on the school-sponsored projects," said Megan, "like the Float Contest and bake sale."

Freshmen

Capturing first place in the Mini-hoop Contest gave the freshmen more confidence in school activities. "We just didn't know what we were doing at the first of the year," said President Crystal Moxley. The mini-hoop was made out of colored tissue paper glued to the flat surface of the hoop. "It was really difficult," said Crystal. "We worked really hard on it."

A fall bake sale started the class finances off with $30, along with $35 from the Mini-hoop Contest. "We were just starting off so we'll have enough money when we're juniors," said Crystal.

Most high school seniors would probably rather take their cars to a professional garage to be repaired than do it themselves, but not Kelli Graham. She does it all herself.

"My dad bought Mom an MG that was all rusted out, so we sanded it out and built it back up with putty. Then we painted it," said Kelli, explaining how she got started on car repair.

Kelli has been restoring cars for three years. Last April, she bought a '63 TR 4. "We had to take all the paint off the car, down to the bare metal. It had seven layers of paint. Then we painted it back to its original color," commented Kelli. Other things she has done include replacing radio knobs, windshield wipers, lights, etc..., replacing the bonnet (top) and replacing the seat covers. "It had the original leather seats, but they were really in bad shape," she said.

Kelli does all this at home with a little help from her father. "I'd like to work for someone eventually, but not now. It's just a hobby, I can't drive a road grader and work on cars all my life," said Kelli. "My dad's a conservation contractor, and that's what I would like to be."

To some, dolls conjure up visions of little girls, teacups and pigtails. Dana Mills, however, has made a hobby of dolls.

Dana's grandmother, an antique buff, supplies most of the dolls for her, including Dana's first and favorite doll, Rosalyn. "My grandmother brought it to me from Italy; she was visiting her sisters. She wanted to give me a present on the day I was christened," explained Dana. "She found it at an antique store. It didn't have a name, just a sign under it that said 'born in 1806'."

Dana has several other dolls, including an old cupie doll she found herself. She likes to look at doll books to see if any of her dolls are pictured in them. In one book she found a doll that she would love to have. "It's a widow doll with red hair and dressed in black. She has a short black veil that kind of covers one eye. I saw it in a book and just fell in love with it; it's so cute. I think it would be something weird."

Dana's not sure exactly how much her collection's worth, but she knows it's valuable. She wants to give it to her children and have them keep it in the family.

The main problem with doll collecting as a hobby is its cost. Said Dana, "It's an expensive hobby. You have to be pretty well off. I'm not well off, but my grandma is."

Word of mouth travels quickly, and that's good news to Senior Fred Polzin. Fred sings at weddings for friends as well as being in Mixed Ensemble and president of Chorale.

Fred has been involved in music since his fifth grade music teacher, Mrs. Lennon, first sparked his interest. "I had an elementary school teacher who got me to try out for the solo in the Christmas program. I didn't get that one, but I did get another solo," said Fred. "She took me aside and taught me." While still in grade school, Fred sang solos at Mary Herbert and was cast in a part in the high school musical, "South Pacific." "I played the part of a young boy," commented Fred. "That was fun."

Fred has also sung professionally for two years. He sings at weddings mainly. "A close friend of the family asked me to sing at their wedding," Fred said. Since then he has had five or six other jobs. He doesn't advertise his talent, but relies on word of mouth. Fred also doesn't have a set fee. "They usually do end up paying me, but I don't charge any set fee," he said.

The hardest job was when Fred sang for a baby's funeral. "It was really sad because I had to sing something like 'Now I Lay Me Down to Sleep'," he said. "I had to stand behind the coffin and look at the parents."

Occasionally Fred thinks about performing in a band. "I think it would be really fun to do vocals in a band," he said. "It would be pop or modern."

Right now, though, singing is just a hobby for Fred. "I don't know if I'll ever do anything with it; it's just a pastime."

Mike Koch

Junior Mike Koch raises cattle for sale and show.

He got started about six years ago when he bought a steer and a heifer for a 4-H project. Mike now owns 25 head of registered Angus cattle.

"I make a profit of about $1,000 a year by buying heifers and breeding them. If the calf is male, I sell it, and if it is female, I breed it." Mike sells his calves for about $500, with a profit of about $300.

Mike's 4-H winnings include blue ribbons and purple ribbons for champion crossbred steer and champion Angus steer.

"I feed my cows and calves 50 pounds of ground corn a day and a big round bale of prairie hay once a week." He has a job at John North Ford to pay for the feed.

Mike plans to keep raising cattle as a part-time job. "But my big goal right now is to raise my own calf and get Grand Champion."

Spotlight on... Scott Montgomery

Junior Scott Montgomery has been playing the piano and trumpet for about seven years. He said he got started by banging around on the piano. "So my mom and dad made me take lessons," he explained.

Scott is currently playing with two bands, the "John Keady Quartet" and the "Evil Intentions." He has been playing with the "John Keady Quartet" since mid-September and has had fifteen performances with them. So far, all the performances have been in town.

When asked about his future, Scott said with a smile, "I plan to play with a professional band."

Richard Felipe

Could you imagine owning enough frisbees to cover one wall? No? Well, Sophomore Richard Felipe doesn't have to imagine, because he has 28 of them, and all after only one year of collecting.

Some of his favorites include one that is 30 years old, one from the '76 Winter Olympics, one that weighs approximately 165 grams (less than ½ pound) and is a world class, and would you believe one that is about the size of a silver dollar! Most of these Richard has acquired from friends, but one even came from a cereal box.

Richard's hobby might seem an expensive one to some, but it isn't. So far, Richard has spent about $6 on it.

Richard is also a member of the National Frisbee Association (NFA), and hopes one day to compete in a contest or play in a tournament. "It is really easy to join NFA," said Richard. "I heard about it, wrote a letter, and became a member."

Richard started collecting frisbees because he liked to play frisbee. He became really interested in frisbee football and now plays it whenever he can.

Jenika Ott

Painting is not one of the most popular hobbies in high school today. But Sophomore Jenika Ott really doesn't mind.

Jenika has been painting for 14 years now. "I like to paint so I can let out my frustrations," said Jenika. Jenika paints about 14 hours a week, and she says it costs her about $45 a month. It would cost her more if she couldn't borrow art supplies from Jerry Troxell's art classes.

Jenika's parents help supply some of the materials and even give her some ideas for subjects. "Most of my paintings are like dreams," said Jenika. "I see the things in my dreams, or I paint them as dreams."

When Jenika lived in Wisconsin, she had five years of art training, and some of her paintings were displayed at the Community Art Center for about six months. On January 10, Jenika had more paintings displayed, this time at the Emporia Public Library.

Jenika does not know what she will be after she gets out of high school, but she thinks she would like to become a commercial artist or have some other career related to art.

Washington to state capitals...

Spotlight on . . .

Kevin Casteneda

In just one year's time, Freshman Kevin Casteneda has accumulated 30 pigeons.

"I got involved with pigeons just because I like birds," said Kevin.

At the Hutchinson State Fair in November, Kevin's birds took three firsts, one second and one third. The birds were judged on the size of their bodies and their color.

According to Kevin, it is very easy to take care of birds. "It only takes three hours a day and $7 a month to care for them," he explained. "The $7 takes care of the food and medicine. The medicine, like shots, costs the most," he said. Kevin explained that the food (corn, wheat and grit) is very inexpensive.

Kevin has a wide assortment of pigeons which includes thirteen Rollers, seven Fantails, four Chinese owls and four Tumblers.

Kevin commented that the hens live three to four years and the cocks live five to seven years. "To find out if they're cocks or hens, you have to wait for mating season," he said. Kevin continued that the hen bobs her head, bloats and ruffles her feathers. The cock makes a lot of noise and twists and turns as if dancing.

"I never name them or get 'attached' to one particular bird," concluded Kevin.

The ball flies from his hands... it curves to the left... now it's straightening up... it's going down the middle... and it's a strike!

Freshman John Speer has been bowling for six years and truly enjoys the activity, not to mention the accumulation of seven trophies.

This year his team, the Baseballs, is holding first place. They have been to four tournaments, two in Wichita and two here in Emporia. They took first in all four. "I've only been in three tournaments," said John, "but hope to be in more."

John has a very high score of 200 and says the lowest he ever got was 137.

As the spotlight on EHS, 1981, dims, we look toward the summer: summer jobs, trips, camps, or just idle time. The tests, papers, games, 7th hours, dances, concerts, and plays are over. The stage is empty ... until the spotlight shines on 1982.
